4. To appoint, whenever he may deem it best to do so, three competent, disinterested persons, no more than two of whom shall be of the same political party, to examine without notice the affairs of any department, officer, or employe of said city, and submit the results of said examination to him.

5. The mayor may at any time whenever he may believe any person appointed to office by him or any of his predecessors to be incompetent, or unfaithful to the duties of his office, or that the requirements of the public service demand his removal, summon said officer before him at a place and time specified in said summons, to show cause why he should not be removed from said office. With said summons he shall leave with said officer a written statement of the charges against him, and if, after a full hearing, he shall find that such officer is incompetent or unfaithful, or that the requirements of the public service demand his removal, he may remove such person from his office. Any such official so removed may appeal from the order of the mayor removing him from said office to the superior court or any judge thereof, which appeal shall be made returnable not more than six nor less than three days from the date of the order of removal of said mayor, and shall be served upon the mayor or at his usual place of abode at least forty-eight hours before the time fixed for a hearing. And said court or judge, having given such further notice as may be deemed necessary to all parties, shall forthwith hear said case, and may approve or revoke the order of said mayor and may award costs at his discretion. But no such official so removed shall exercise any of the powers of his office during the pendency of his appeal to the superior court.

All opinions so given by him shall be recorded in an indexed book, which book shall be kept in the office of the corporation counsel and shall be the property of the city, and such opinions as the mayor shall direct shall be published in the year book issued next after such opinions are given. He shall, when so directed by the mayor or court of common council, represent the city in all matters pending before the general assembly affecting the interests of said city, and he shall perform all other legal services which may be required of him by the court of common council or by law or ordinance. He shall annually, on or before the fifteenth day of February, make a written report to the mayor of his doings for the fiscal year next preceding, showing the condition of all unfinished business in his hands, and give, between the fifteenth day of February and the first day of June next succeeding, to the mayor all further additional information that he may desire in regard to the condition of his department.

A bureau of streets, the head of which shall be called the superintendent of streets, who shall, under said director, have charge of the opening of all new streets, and the improvement, repair, and cleaning of all streets, avenues, highways, alleys, sidewalks, parks, and public grounds under the charge of said department. The salary of said superintendent shall not exceed eighteen hundred dollars per annum.

2. A bureau of sewers, the head of which shall be called the superintendent of sewers, who, under said director, shall be charged with the repair, cleaning, and general supervision of all sewers, drains, sluice-ways, culverts, and catch-basins, and with such other duties as may be designated by the director. The salary of said superintendent shall not exceed eighteen hundred dollars per annum.

3. A bureau of engineering, which shall be under the care of an experienced civil engineer, who shall be known as the city engineer, and shall make all surveys, maps, plans, drawings, specifications, and estimates relating to the work of said department; shall superintend the construction and repair of sewers, bridges, and new pavements, and do any other engineering work which said department may require; and shall care for and preserve all maps, papers, and books of said department, and perform such other duties as may be by ordinance prescribed. The salary of said engineer shall not exceed twenty-five hundred dollars per annum.

4. A bureau of compensation, at the head of which shall be a board, consisting of three commissioners, to be appointed by the mayor, not more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, which board shall elect one of its members to be president. The members of said board shall receive for their services such salaries as the board of finance may determine, not exceeding the sum of three hundred dollars each per year. The members of the bureau of compensation holding office when this act takes effect shall continue to hold office until the expiration of the terms for which they were appointed, unless removed in accordance with the provisions of this act; and in the month of June, 1900, and in each June thereafter, the mayor shall appoint one member of said bureau for a term of three years from the first day of July next succeeding. (See Section 17, appendix, page 127.)

SEC. 77. The director of public works shall appoint such clerical assistance as may be necessary for said department, with salary to be fixed by the board of finance. It shall be the duty of said clerk or clerks to perform the clerical work of said board, and act as clerk of the department of compensation, and also to examine all transfers of real estate within the boundaries of said city which are matters of public record, and to make and preserve, for the use of the department or board, and for the use of all officers of said city, such abstracts of titles to real estate as may facilitate the work of such department or board, or the work of any other department or officer of said city, and perform such other duties as may be by ordinance prescribed.

SEC. 78. Before the court of common council shall decide to take any land, or to lay out any square, park, street, highway, bridge, or walk, or to establish any building line or discontinue any highway, it shall refer all pending measures relating thereto to the department of public works.

Said department shall, after notice to all owners and mortgagees of land proposed to be taken or affected by such measures, and after public hearing thereon, cause a survey of such land or a layout of such public work to be prepared, and an assessment of benefits and damages to be made.

SEC. 79. All of such notices shall be signed by a clerk of the department, and a notice shall be delivered or mailed to each person, interested as aforesaid in such land, who resides in the city, or to the agent in charge of such land, or be left at the usual place of abode of said person or agent, at least six days prior to such hearing. In case any person so interested shall not at the time reside in the city, or shall be under any legal disability, or in case the owner of any such property is unknown, such notice shall be given as a judge of the superior court or of the court of common pleas may order.

SEC. 80. The bureau of compensation shall advertise in two or more daily papers three times the time fixed for a hearing on all matters coming before them, and the subject matter of said hearing; and after said hearing shall estimate the total probable expense of taking such land, or of making such public improvements, or discontinuing such highway, or establishing such building lines, and shall assess benefits and damages for or against all persons interested in the matter, and shall estimate how much of said amount shall be paid by each person whose property is especially benefited by the proposed action, and how much shall be paid to each person whose property is damaged thereby. All assessments shall be for the excess of benefits over damages, if any, or vice versa, as the case may be. Said bureau shall make a report of its doings to the department of public works, and in case the damages shall exceed the assessment over benefits, shall state whether there has been any appropriation made in accordance with law to pay for the same, and said department shall report its doings to the court of common council in writing, and shall annex thereto a survey showing the particular designation of the land to be taken or the layout of the proposed public improvement.

SEC. 81. Said court of common council may, after all necessary appropriations have been made, accept said report, and adopt such layout, or assessment, or may modify the same as it may deem best, and when such report or modification shall have been accepted and recorded in the records of the court of common council, and when the damages shall have been paid to the person whose property has been taken or damaged for such public purpose, or shall have been deposited with the city treasurer to be paid to such person when he shall apply for the same, then each of said assessments shall be legally deemed to have been made, and if the matter relate to the taking of land, the land described in the order of said court of common council shall be and remain taken and devoted to the public use for which it shall have been so designated. Such assessment shall be published three times in each of two or more daily newspapers published in said city, within one week after compliance with the foregoing provision in regard to the payment of damages, and after the report of the director of public works that the improvements have been completed. All assessments of benefits shall be payable immediately after the last day of publication of such assessments. The city clerk, shall, with any such assessment, also publish the descriptive part of the order of the court of common council on which such assessment is based, and the date when the same is payable.

If any person shall refuse to receive the amount found due to him, or in case no one shall be found having authority to receive the sum found due to any particular person, such amount shall be deposited in the treasury of said city, to be paid to the person entitled to receive the same whenever he shall apply therefor. No assessment for benefits shall be collectible nor bear interest until the work for such assessment was laid shall have been completed. Every such assessment shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from and after the date of such completion until a certificate of lien therefor shall have been filed.

SEC. 82. The court of common council may order the owner or owners of any land fronting on any highway or street in said city to construct or repair sidewalks, curbs, or gutters within the highway adjacent to said land, in the manner and within the time specified in such order, at such grade as said city may have constructed in said highway. Notice of such order shall be given by the director of public works to each property owner affected by said order, in the manner prescribed for serving notices of hearing of said department. If any such owner shall neglect or refuse to comply with such order, or to remove snow, ice, or sleet from the sidewalk adjacent to his land in the manner required by ordinance, it shall be the duty of the superintendent of streets, at the expense of the city, to perform the things required by such order or ordinance, and the expense so incurred shall, from the time when such superintendent begins to act and make expense in the premises, be and continue a lien and real incumbrance in favor of said city upon such land. Such amount may also be recovered in an action in the name of said city.

SEC. 83. All assessments of benefits made under this act shall be and remain a lien upon the property especially benefited by the public work or improvement in view of which such assessments were made, but the whole amount of assessments for benefits, by reason of any such work or improvement, shall in no case exceed the cost thereof, including the damages payable; and such liens, and liens for the expenses of the laying of any sidewalk, curb, or gutter by said city, or for the cleaning of any sidewalk, or for the sprinkling of any street, shall take precedence and priority of all other liens or incumbrances on the property whereon the same is imposed (except taxes and other city liens prior in date), and may be foreclosed in the same manner as though said liens were mortgages on such property in favor of said city to secure the amount of such assessment or expense: provided, that no such lien shall continue to exist longer than sixty days after such assessment shall have become payable, or, as the case may be, after such expense shall have been incurred, unless within that period a certificate of lien, in the manner and form elsewhere provided, shall be lodged with the town clerk of the town of New Haven, to be by him recorded in a book kept for that purpose.

(When any lien is put upon any land or buildings under the charter and by-laws of said city, such land and buildings shall be liable for the assessment and interest on the amount of such lien from the date thereof until paid, and also for the town clerk's fee and a fee of one dollar for the drafting of a lien certificate, and, before such lien shall be removed, such assessment, interest, and fees shall be paid to the collector. Amendment by act approved June 3, 1903.)

SEC. 84. In case any land in front of which any sidewalk, curb, or gutter is ordered, or against which an assessment of benefits for any public work is to be made, shall be holden by two or more persons jointly, or two or more persons shall have different estates therein, the board of compensation may apportion between such persons the amount of such assessment or the expense of carrying out such order. Said board shall report its doings to the court of common council, and the action of said court of common council thereon shall determine the amount to be paid by the said persons respectively.

SEC. 85. Any party who shall be aggrieved by any order of the court of common council, making any such assessment of benefits or damages, or requiring the construction of any sidewalk, curb, or gutter, or the payment of any part of the expense thereof, may make written application for relief to the superior court, to be held in and for New Haven county; provided, however, that he shall cause a copy of said application to be served upon the city clerk within thirty days after the doing of the act complained of. Said court may, by a committee or otherwise, inquire into the allegations of such application, and may confirm, annul, or modify the assessment or other action therein complained of, or make such order in the premises as equity may require, and may allow costs to either or neither party at its discretion; and said court may inquire into the validity of all the proceedings upon which said assessments or other action is based. No land taken as aforesaid shall be occupied by the city until the time for taking appeals shall have expired, and until all appeals have been finally disposed of. All such appeals shall be privileged cases in the superior court, and it shall be the duty of the corporation counsel to cause such appeals to be heard as speedily as possible.

For the pur-

The necessary expenses of said board shall be paid by the city after approval by the board of finance. All citizens now members of said civil service board shall continue to be members of said board during the terms for which they were appointed unless sooner removed for cause under the provisions of this act. In the month of December, 1900, and biennially thereafter in the month of December, the mayor shall appoint a member of said civil service board for a term of six years from the first day of January next succeeding his appointment. Not more than two of the citizen members appointed by the mayor shall at any time be members of the same political party, and neither of such citizen members shall hold any other city office.—As amended by act approved April 9, 1901.

SEC. 118. It shall be the duty of said board to prescribe rules for ascertaining the competency of applicants for position or promotion in the police and fire departments, and for all positions in the city government except the elective officers, commissioners, officials appointed by the mayor, superintendents and principals and teachers employed by the board of education. Said board shall, under such rules as it may adopt, hold competitive examinations as a basis for recommendations respecting any such positions or promotions. Said board shall also adopt such rules as it may deem effective providing for the registration and selection of all laborers to be employed by the city, which shall relate only to their capacity for labor, their habits as to industry, honesty, and sobriety, and the number of persons dependent on them for support.

SEC. 119. Whenever said board shall have adopted rules relative to the appointment or promotion of any class of such officials, no appointments or promotions within such class shall be made, except from those who shall have passed an examination of at least seventy per centum and have received a certificate to that effect from said board, and are upon the list of those eligible to such position or promotion, under the rules of said board. And after the adoption of such rules no removals shall be made of persons holding positions in any department of the city, subject to the provisions of such rules, except for sufficient cause duly shown, which cause shall not be political.

SEC. 120. Any appointment or removal made in violation of the provisions of section 119 shall be null and void; and it is hereby made the duty of the controller of the city to ascertain and make record of all appointments lawfully made in accordance with the provisions of said section 119, and he shall make no payments of salary or other compensation to persons within the classes prescribed in section 118, otherwise appointed. And said controller shall be chargeable by the city with all moneys unlawfully paid to persons appointed in violation of the provisions of said section 119.

SEC. 121. Any violation of any of the provisions of the foregoing sections relating to civil service and appointments thereunder shall be a misdemeanor, and any official found guilty of such offense may be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

SEC. 122. The civil service board as at present organized shall continue until January, 1902, when, and biennially thereafter, said board shall elect from its members a president. It shall also choose a secretary, whose duty it shall be to attend all meetings of the board, keep correct records of the same, prepare and keep on file in the office of the controller lists of those eligible for the several departments and clerical positions, send out official notices, and perform such other official duties as may be required of him by the said board. He shall receive such salary as the board may fix, not to exceed five hundred dollars per annum. Said president and secretary shall hold their respective offices for two years from the date of their election and until their successors are duly elected and qualified.—As amended by act approved March 21, 1901.

SEC. 123. It shall be the duty of the secretary of said board to certify to the controller all lists of those eligible for appointment, giving names, ages, street addresses, nationality, examination grades, and to what positions each one is eligible. Such certifications shall be made within twenty-four hours after such lists shall have been made out by the board. Said secretary shall also place a duplicate copy of each of such eligible lists, within twenty-four hours after it shall have been made out by the board, in a position in the office of said controller easily accessible to the public, and shall keep each of such lists on file at least six months from and after the date of its origin.

SEC. 124. Public notice shall be given of all competitive examinations required under the several foregoing sections by one advertisement inserted in each of the daily newspapers issued in the city of New Haven, which advertisement in each of said papers shall be not less than five days prior to the date set for each of such examinations so advertised.

There shall be a court of common council in said city, consisting of a board of aldermen, which shall include all of the aldermen, and a board of councilmen, which shall include all of the councilmen, which boards shall meet separately, and said court shall, with the approval of the mayor, or over his veto, as hereinbefore provided, exercise all of the powers conferred upon said city, except as otherwise provided.

SEC. 126. At the beginning of each municipal year, each of said boards of the court of common council shall elect, from among its own members, a president, who shall preside at the meetings of his board. In case of the death, resignation, removal, absence, or disability of its president, either board may elect a president pro tempore.

SEC. 127. Regular meetings of said boards shall be held at such times as may be fixed by the city ordinances; and said boards may be especially convened at any time by the mayor, and, upon a petition of the majority of either of said boards, in writing, filed with the city clerk, a meeting of such board shall be called. Said board may determine the rules of its proceedings, in conformity with the general principles of parliamentary law, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, by a vote of three-fourths of its members, expel a member for due cause. A majority of all of the members of each of said boards shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the vote upon any question shall be taken by yeas and nays at the request of one-fifth of the members present.

SEC. 128. Whenever any meeting of either of said boards shall have been regularly called and no quorum shall be present, those members present may, by vote, request the mayor of said city or the presiding officer of said board to issue, and, upon such request, the said mayor or presiding officer shall issue a warrant signed by him, directed to the city sheriff of said city, or to the sheriff of New Haven county, or some one of his deputies, to arrest and bring into such meeting such members of said board as will, together with those present, constitute a quorum; and, at any meeting of said board, those members shall have the power to make any orders to compel the attendance of other members, and any one of the officers above mentioned shall obey such orders, upon request, and summon such assistance as may be necessary to carry such orders into effect. Each of said boards may also appoint a page, at a salary not to exceed fifty dollars per annum, who shall attend all the meetings of said board, and perform such other duties as may be required of him by said board.

SEC. 129. No by-law or ordinance shall be put upon its passage in the board of aldermen until it shall have been printed for examination, and no by-law or ordinance shall be put upon its passage until it shall have been referred to and reported by a suitable committee after a public hearing. No other vote, resolution, or measure, except reports from the director of public works concerning assessments, shall be put upon its passage, except by unanimous consent, until it shall have been referred to and reported by a suitable committee after a public hearing, nor until, after the report of such committee, it has been twice read to said board. But the second reading of such vote, resolution or measure shall not take place until at least one week has elapsed from the time of the first reading, unless the mayor shall send to said board a special message reciting that the particular vote, resolution, or measure is of an emergency nature and that immediate action is necessary, in which event such second reading may take place upon the same day of the original reading, and the printing of the same be dispensed with. Every such vote, resolution, or measure shall, after the same has been reported by an appropriate committee, be printed for examination at the request of one-fifth of the members present, except in the instance of an emergency message from the mayor. No ordinance shall be of force or effect until it shall have been published at least three times in all of the daily papers published in said city, nor until one week after its enactment.—As amended by act approved June 14, 1903.

SEC. 130. All elections to any office or position within the gift of said court or either of said boards shall be made by viva voce vote, except as herein otherwise provided.

SEC. 132. The city of New Haven shall be a highway district, and the court of common council shall have sole and exclusive authority and control over all streets and highways, now or hereafter existing within the limits of said city, and shall have sole and exclusive power to lay out, make, or order new highways and streets within the limits of said city, and to alter, repair, and discontinue all highways and streets now or hereafter existing within the limits of said city. No person shall open, within the limits of said city, any public or private way, except under and by virtue of an order of said court of common council. Said court of common council is hereby authorized and empowered to order, lay out, construct, repair, and alter public squares, parks, streets, highways, sewers, gutters, drains, bridges, and walks, except as herein otherwise provided, whenever and wherever, in the opinion of said court of common council, the public good shall so require, and to order the paving, macadamizing, or other improvement of any street, alley, or highway within said city. Said court of common council is also authorized and empowered to construct and maintain wharves and docks; provided, that no wharf or dock shall be extended beyond the harbor line; and if, in the construction of any such wharf or dock, it is necessary to take any of the rights or property of individuals, and it cannot agree with said individuals upon the price to be paid for the same, they may exercise all the powers of eminent domain. The department of public works shall execute, and is hereby empowered to execute, all orders of the court of common council with reference to the matters contained in this section. The court of common council may, upon the execution of any order for the paving, macadamizing, or other improvement of any street or highway within said city, or upon the construction or alteration of any public sewer or other public work, assess upon the persons whose property is in the judgment of said court especially benefited thereby, after reference to the board of compensation, and report thereon, as hereinbefore provided, a proportional and reasonable part thereof, and shall estimate the particular amount of such expense to be paid by every such person upon such assessment. In estimating such reasonable part of the expense of any sewer, the cost of constructing any main or trunk sewer, into and through which such other sewer is discharged, may be taken into consideration.

SEC. 133. The court of common council of said city is hereby authorized and empowered to take, occupy, and appropriate, for the purpose of drainage and sewerage of said city, at such times and in such manner as the health and convenience of said city may, in the opinion of the court, require, any and all water-courses, natural and artificial, or any portion thereof, within said city, except West river, which may be used solely for the purpose of receiving storm overflow from the Boulevard sewer; to deepen, clear out, alter, or straighten the same, or any portion thereof, for the purposes aforesaid; to establish the bounds thereof within which it shall not be lawful for any person to place any building, part of a building, wall, dam, or obstruction, without a special license from said court of common council first had and obtained; to remove all buildings, parts of buildings, walls, dams, earth, stones, rubbish, and obstructions of every kind that may be situated within the bounds of said water-courses, to be designated as aforesaid; to construct sewers or other artificial channels for the flow of said water, and to remove all obstructions to the passage of water in the said water-courses, sewers, or channels; also to raise, fill up, and drain low grounds.

SEC. 134. Said court of common council shall have supervision over all bridges crossing railroads in said city, and may, from time to time, order the building, widening, or repairing of such bridges in such manner and within such times as in its judgment public convenience may require; and in case any railroad company, whose road is crossed by such bridge, shall neglect to obey such order, said court of common council may cause the required building, widening, or repairing to be executed at the expense of said city, and the treasurer of said city may then collect the amount of such expense from such delinquent company. Any order of said common council made hereunder shall be subject to appeal to the superior court by any railroad company affected thereby, by notice to said city of such appeal, given within thirty days from the service of such order upon such railroad company.

SEC. 135. Said court of common council may take by the right of eminent domain, in the name of the city, any property or property rights which may be needed for the purpose of laying out, extending, or widening any street, or park, or for the purpose of constructing or protecting any sewer, drain, or other property, or for the purpose of any public building, or for the successful prosecution and management of the almshouse and the property connected therewith, upon payment of just compensation under the rules governing the right of eminent domain.

SEC. 136. The director of public works shall provide for the watering and sprinkling of all streets and highways within the original twelve wards of said city, and shall provide in like manner for the watering and sprinkling of the streets and highways for the remaining portion of said city whenever the same shall come under the full jurisdiction of said city in accordance with the provisions of the charter of said city. Within the distance along any street or highway to be watered under the authority of this section, so much of said street or highway from side to side, shall be watered as shall be ordered by said director of public works. The actual cost of watering the whole or any part of any street or highway under this section shall be paid, except as hereinafter provided, by said city. Every street railway company operating a street railway upon any part of a street or highway shall itself sprinkle with water so much of the width of said part of said street or highway as is included within its tracks and a space of two feet on the outer side of the outer rails thereof, such sprinkling to be done at such times and in a manner satisfactory to the director of public works. Said city shall furnish the water used by such company for sprinkling, free of expense to such company. And said director of public works shall have power to contract with any street railway company, or with any person or persons, for the sprinkling with water of the streets and highways to be watered under this act; and said director of public works shall have the power to obtain and furnish, to such street railway company, or other person with whom it has contracted, under this section, water to be used in sprinkling the streets or highways in said city. Should any street railway company fail to sprinkle the streets or highways over which its lines are operated, as provided in this section, in a manner satisfactory to the director of public works, said director of public works shall provide for the sprinkling of such streets or highways for the remainder of the season, and the court of common council shall assess against the property of such railway company the actual cost of watering such parts of the streets or highways as have been neglected by such street railway company. The assessment upon the property of such railway company shall be made in the manner provided for assessing benefits occasioned by public works in said city, and shall be collected in the same manner that city taxes are collected.

Such assessments shall be and remain a lien upon the land or other property assessed by said court of common council as aforesaid; provided, that such lien shall not remain for a longer period than sixty days after such actual expense has been ascertained, and the owner of such property notified, unless the tax collector shall file with the town clerk of the town of New Haven a certificate signed by him describing the property on which the lien exists and the amount claimed as a lien thereon; and the city of New Haven may collect the amount assessed against any street railway company in accordance with the provisions of this act by suit at law in any proper court. The assessments for street sprinkling, for sewers, and for street pavements, under the act on page 565 of the special acts of 1895, and the amendments thereto, need not be advertised in any newspaper, but all such assessments shall be valid and of full force whenever the city clerk of said city shall have deposited in the post-office a letter or postal card addressed to the owner of the abutting property and to the street railroad company.

against which any assessment may have been laid, notifying such owner or railroad company of the amount of any such assessment.—As amended by act approved June 17, 1901.

If, in the judgment of the court, there appears to be reasonable ground for such proceeding, the court shall direct the complaint to be filed of record, and make an order upon the accused returnable on a day certain and within ten days from the date thereof, to appear and answer said complaint, which order, with copy of said complaint, shall be forthwith served upon the accused, or left at his last known place of residence. If, on the return day of the order, the court shall find sufficient cause for further proceedings, it shall fix a time within sixty days for a full hearing of said complaint.

All contracts to be made or let for work to be done or for supplies to be furnished to said city, except for the furnishing of light, water, or telephone service, and except as in this act otherwise provided, and all sales of personal property in the custody of the several departments, boards, or officers of said city shall be made by the departments, boards, or by the officers having the subject matter in charge. Whenever any work is necessary to be done to execute or perfect a particular undertaking, or any supply is needful for any particular purpose, and the several parts of said work or supply shall together involve the expenditure of more than two hundred and fifty dollars, a written contract for such work or supply shall be made, under such regulations as the court of common council may by ordinance establish, and under the rules of the department, board or office in question, which contract shall be founded on sealed bids or proposals, except for architect's services or where the supplies or the work needed can only be furnished by one party, made in compliance with public notice, duly advertised by publication, at least ten days before the time fixed for opening said bids or proposals. If the department, board, or the officer in question shall not deem it for the interest of the city to reject all bids, the department, board, or such officer shall award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder; provided, however, that if the department, board, or officer in question shall not deem it practicable or for the best interests of the city to proceed as above required for any particular work or the obtaining of any particular supply, a written statement to that effect shall be made, giving reasons and the manner in which, in the opinion of said department, board, or officer, the work should be done, or the supply obtained, and submit the statement to the court of common council, which shall take such action in the matter as it shall decide to be for the best interests of the city; provided, however, that all street cleaning, general repairs, and general maintenance of the highways in said city may be performed at the expense of said city under the supervision of the proper department thereof without calling for any bids or making any contract.

The form of each contract, which shall include the specifications, shall be approved by the corporation counsel, and the contractor shall give security to the satisfaction of the mayor and controller for the faithful performance of his contract. All bids or proposals shall be publicly opened by the department, board, or officer advertising for the same, in the presence of the controller; but the opening of bids shall not be postponed if the controller shall, after due notice, fail to attend. If the lowest bidder shall neglect or refuse to accept the contract within five days after written notice that the same has been awarded according to his bid or proposal, or if he fail to execute his contract or to give proper security, it may be re-advertised and re-let in the manner provided, or, with the written approval of the mayor, filed for public record with the city clerk, said contract may be awarded to the next lowest responsible bidder. If any work shall be abandoned by any contractor, it may be re-advertised and re-let in the manner provided for in the original contract, or, with the written approval of the mayor, such department, board, or officer, may cause said work to be finished without making a new contract, and the original contractor shall be liable to the city for any excess in the cost of said work over the amount of the original contract. No bid shall be accepted from or contract awarded to any person who is in arrears to the city upon debt or contract, or who is a defaulter as surety or otherwise upon any obligation to the city. Three copies of every contract shall be executed, and one of the original copies thereof shall be filed in the controller's office.

Whenever proposals for furnishing supplies or doing work are invited by advertisement by any department, board, or officer, such department, board, or officer shall require, as a condition precedent to the reception of any proposal, the deposit with such department, board, or officer of a check, drawn to the order of the controller and certified by some reliable bank.

Such checks shall accompany the proposal and be for an amount of not less than five per centum of the amount required by said bid to be paid by the city for the proposed work to be done or supply to be furnished. Within three days after it is decided who is the lowest responsible bidder the controller shall return all such checks to the persons depositing the same, except the check deposited by the lowest responsible bidder for such contract; and if the said lowest responsible bidder shall refuse or neglect, within five days after due notice that the contract has been awarded to him, to execute the same, the amount of the deposit made by him shall be forfeited to and retained by the city as liquidated damages for such neglect or refusal, and shall be paid into the treasury of said city; but if said lowest responsible bidder shall execute the contract within the time aforesaid, the amount of his deposit shall be returned to him.—As amended by act approved June 17, 1901.

CIVIL JURISDICTION.

SEC. 172. Said court shall have concurrent jurisdiction over all civil causes, both at law and in equity, wherein any of the parties reside in said city or town, except suits wherein the title to, or right to possession of, or easement in land situated outside of the limits of said city or town is to be tried and determined, and except civil actions for injury to such title or right; provided, that in any civil cause wherein the debt, damage, or matter in demand exceeds one hundred dollars in amount or value, any defendant residing out of said city or town may, with the written assent of the rest of the defendants, when there are more than one, remove said cause to the next court of common pleas or superior court for New Haven county: provided, said cause would have originally been within the jurisdiction of the court to which the same is removed, upon his written motion filed within three days after the return day of the writ, and upon filing therewith his affidavit that he has a bona fide defense and that such removal is not intended for delay, which affidavit shall form a part of the files and records of the cause; and upon the granting of such motion the clerk of the city court shall deliver the original files in the said cause, with his certificate of removal thereon, to the clerk of the court to which it is removed, who shall forthwith enter the same upon the docket of said court, to be in all respects proceeded with as though it had been originally brought to said court, and no attachment, lien, bail-bond, or other security previously had or given shall be affected by such removal; provided further, that any defendant aggrieved by any judgment or decree rendered by said court in any cause which was originally within the jurisdiction of the superior court, may appeal to said superior court, except in a case of a trial by jury upon his own motion.

Said appeal shall be taken to the next return day or the next but one of the superior court, and such defendant shall file a written notice of appeal, and a bond to the adverse party in the sum of one hundred dollars, with surety satisfactory to said city court to prosecute such appeal to effect, and answer all damages if he make not his plea good, within forty-eight hours after such judgment shall have been rendered, unless said city court shall, on motion, extend the time for filing the same. The clerk shall, within ten days after the filing of such bond and notice, deliver a true and attested copy of the files and records of the cause to the clerk of the superior court, who shall enter said cause on the docket thereof, and said cause shall thenceforth be proceeded with in all respects as in case of appeals from the judgment of justices of the peace. The party who shall finally prevail in said cause shall recover all costs taxed in said city court.

Said city court shall not have power to issue writs of mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto, ne exeat, or habeas corpus.

SEC. 173. Said court shall have the same authority in cases of bastardy that is or may hereafter by law be exercised by justices of the peace in the town of New Haven. Said court shall have power and authority to issue search warrants to be served in said town of New Haven, and the proceedings in reference to such search warrants shall in all respect be the same as in reference to search warrants issued by justices of the peace in the several towns. Complaints for forcible entry and detainer with reference to any houses, lands, or tenements, situated wholly within the limits of said city or town, may be made to said city court, and said court may proceed thereupon in all respects as a county commissioner and a justice of the peace may do, and all the other provisions of the statutes of this state, with reference to forcible entry and detainer, are hereby made applicable to such cases, except that the jury shall be drawn and summoned, and costs shall be taxed as in other civil cases before said city court.

SEC. 174. All writs and other process and proceedings brought to, pending in, or issuing from said city court, shall be in form, style, subscription, and mode of authentication, similar to those in use from time to time in the superior court, and shall have the same authority and validity, and such process may be signed and issued by the authorities authorized by the general statutes to sign and issue process and by the judge or clerk of said city court, and may be served in any part of this state by any person authorized to serve like process issuing from or returnable to the superior court in like cases.

SEC. 175. The rules of practice in the superior court, both in civil and criminal causes, so far as the same may be applicable, shall govern the practice in said court until the same shall have been modified by the judge of said city court, who is hereby authorized to repeal, modify, or add to said rules.

SEC. 176. The city court of the city of New Haven shall hereafter have the exclusive jurisdiction of all civil cases now cognizable by justices of the peace for the town of New Haven, except actions of summary process and bastardy proceedings, but this act shall not affect actions now pending before justices of the peace in said town. In all actions at law where the matter in demand does not exceed one hundred dollars, the general statutes relating to the service and return of process before justices of the peace shall apply to the service and return of such process before said city court. Whenever any action is pending before said court in which the matter in demand exceeds twenty dollars in amount or value and does not exceed one hundred dollars, a jury of six shall be summoned from the duly sworn jurors of said city to try the same, on motion of either party, made within such time as the rules of said court shall provide; provided, that the party so moving for a jury shall enter into a recognizance with surety to the adverse party in such sum as the court shall order, conditioned for the payment of all costs in case final judgment is rendered against him. In all civil actions where the matter in demand does not exceed one hundred dollars, all taxable costs and fees, including clerk and jury fees and compensation to jurors, shall be the same as in trials before justices of the peace; in all other civil cases the costs and fees shall be the same as in cases brought to the superior court, and in all cases formerly cognizable in equity the costs shall be at the discretion of the court, in the same manner as in causes pending in the superior court.—As amended by act approved May 12, 1905.

SEC. 177. There shall be but one term of said city court, beginning on the first Monday of July in each year. There shall be a session of said court for the transaction of civil business on the first Monday of each month, and at such other times as the judge or associate judge of said court shall direct.

SEC. 178. When a defendant who is sued in said city court in any civil action lives within the limits of the town of New Haven, the writ shall be served upon him at least six days before the day to which the writ is returnable, but if the defendant lives without the limits of the town of New Haven, the writ shall be served upon him at least twelve days before said return day. Writs may be made returnable to said court upon any Monday or Thursday; provided, that each writ shall be returned to the clerk of said court on or before the day preceding the one to which such writ is returnable.

SEC. 179. Either party to any civil action may put the same to a jury under like conditions and with like effect as in the superior court, unless said city court shall by rule otherwise prescribe. Said court may cause a jury to be summoned at such time as it may see fit.

SEC. 180. Whenever said clerk shall issue a warrant commanding any proper officer to summon a jury to appear before said court, such officer shall, in the presence of the judge or associate judge of said court, take out of the jury box as many papers as his warrant directs, and the persons whose names shall be found written thereon shall be summoned to appear before the court at the time in the warrant named, to serve as jurors; and in case a complete panel shall not attend, or for any reason there shall be a deficiency of jurors for the trial of any cause, such officer shall supply the deficiency by drawing, in the presence of the court, other names from said box, and summoning such persons to attend and serve, or by summoning a sufficient number of talesmen, as the court may direct, until the panel shall be complete, and the names of such jurors as do not attend or are challenged or excused shall be returned to the box and shall be liable to be drawn again.

The name of each juror who attends court and serves shall, in like manner as aforesaid, be put into another box, which said clerk shall provide for that purpose, and may be drawn again in case, for any reason, there is a deficiency in the other box to complete the panels for that year for which they are chosen to serve.

SEC. 181. Either judge of said court shall have power to try and decide all issues of fact that shall have come before said court by himself or by a jury of any number of freemen, not less than two or more than twelve, empaneled as aforesaid when both parties shall agree thereto. The oath to be taken by said jurors shall be the juror's oath now provided by law. Any juror neglecting to attend when duly summoned shall be liable to such penalties as shall be prescribed by the ordinances of said city for such neglect.

SEC. 182. The judge or associate judge of said court may require the city sheriff, or, in his absence, inability, or disability, the sheriff of New Haven county, or any one of his deputies, or any constable of the town of New Haven, to attend any session of said court held for the transaction of civil business only, and to execute the orders of said court. It shall be the duty of such officers to attend said court when required.

SEC. 183. Either the city attorney or the assistant city attorney may sue for, in any proper form of civil action, collect, and receive, in the name and behalf of said city, the penalty incurred by the breach of any ordinance of said city, or any by-law of the departments of parks or of health, now or hereafter in force; or such city attorney may enforce such ordinance by criminal prosecution, but no person shall be prosecuted both civilly and criminally for the same breach of an ordinance, and in such prosecution, civil or criminal, it shall be a sufficient description of the offense or forfeiture to set forth the act complained of and to allege the same to have been done contrary to the ordinance in such case provided. All fines and penalties collected under the provisions of the charter of said city, or of this act, shall, unless otherwise provided, be paid into the treasury of the city.

SEC. 184. From all judgments and decrees of said city court the same relief may be had by appeal as is provided by law for relief from judgments and decrees of the superior court in similar cases and in like manner.

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

SEC. 185. Said court shall have and exercise, within the town and city of New Haven, all the jurisdiction, authority, and powers which judges of the peace in the several towns of this state have and exercise, or shall hereafter by law have and exercise, in all matters of a criminal nature, and shall have jurisdiction and cognizance of all crimes and misdemeanors committed within said town or city, either before or after the passage of this act, the punishment whereof, inflicted by said court, shall not exceed a fine of two hundred dollars, or imprisonment in a common jail or workhouse for six months, or both such fine and imprisonment, notwithstanding any general statute to the contrary, and shall have power to proceed to trial or examination, render judgment, require sureties of the peace, bind over to the superior court in cases not within the jurisdiction of said city court, and grant warrants of commitment and execution in the same manner as justices of the peace in the several towns in this state may do in criminal cases, lawfully brought before them; provided, that the accused may, either during the same session at which he shall be convicted or within forty-eight hours after the close thereof, but not afterwards, appeal to the criminal terms of the court of common pleas next thereafter to be holden in and for said county, in all cases of conviction, except when the conviction shall be of the crimes of drunkenness, profane cursing and swearing, and Sabbath breaking, upon giving bonds of recognizance with sufficient surety to the state, conditioned as is now or may hereafter be provided by law in appeals from judgments of justices of the peace in criminal cases; and provided further, that if the appellant shall be unable to procure bonds on his appeal, he may be committed to jail and there detained for trial, or admitted to bail in the same manner as persons bound over to the superior court for trial.

SEC. 186. Said city court shall also have jurisdiction and power in all cases of criminal prosecution for the breach of the city ordinances and of the by-laws or regulations of the departments of parks and of health, now or hereafter in force, in the same manner and to the same extent, and subject to an appeal to the criminal term of the court of common pleas of said county, in the same manner and upon the same terms as in other criminal matters, except that bonds in all such appeals shall be taken to said city.

SEC. 187. No grand juror shall make complaint, either to said city court or to a justice of the peace, of any criminal matter whereof jurisdiction is conferred upon said city court by this act, nor shall any justice of the peace take cognizance of any action or complaint of a criminal nature whereof jurisdiction is conferred upon said court by this act.

SEC. 188. A session of said court shall be held daily, Sundays excepted, for the trial and disposition of any criminal matters legally brought before it, and may be held on Sunday, and an extra session of said court may be held whenever deemed necessary by the judge or associate judge thereof. Said court shall proceed in all criminal cases without jury, may issue subpoena and capias for witnesses in matters brought before it, warrants of arrest upon complaint made to it of criminal offenses, and all other usual criminal process to be served in any part of this state, and shall administer justice in all criminal matters whereof this act gives jurisdiction according to law, and such process shall be deemed to be issued by the court, when issued and signed by the judge or associate judge, clerk or assistant clerk, the city attorney or his assistant. Said court may adjourn any case to a future day for trial, and take bonds for the appearance of the accused, as justices of the peace may do, and when said court has or may have final jurisdiction thereof, the bonds shall be taken to said city, otherwise to the state; and such bonds may be taken by the judge or associate judge, clerk or assistant clerk, and, in the case of the arrest of any person upon a criminal charge, when the offense is bailable, the judge or associate judge, clerk, or assistant clerk of said court, or the acting chief of police of said city, or some official designated by him, may take bonds, with sufficient surety for the appearance of the accused before said court at its next session for criminal business, and for his abiding the order of said court, and in such cases the bond shall be taken as above provided; but in no case shall any fee or reward be received for taking such bond.

SEC. 189. Said court may suspend the rendition of judgment in the case of any person arraigned before it for drunkenness, vagrancy, disorderly conduct, assault and battery, breach of the peace, or other petty offense, and in the case of juvenile offenders, who might otherwise be committed to the Connecticut School for Boys, or the Connecticut Industrial School for Girls, whenever such court may deem such forbearance to be advisable by reason of the age of the accused or the circumstances under which the offense was committed.

SEC. 190. In all cases and proceedings of a criminal nature, the following costs shall be taxed in said court: A court fee of three dollars, and the same officer's and witness' fees as are taxable in the superior court; provided, however, that in cases of assault and battery, breaches of the peace, and other misdemeanors, said court may, in its discretion, direct that witness fees shall not be paid to any witness in fault in the matter of the complaint, or where the witness is the complainant but the offense is trifling in character, or where said court is of the opinion that the witness is not justly entitled to said fee. All copies in cases coming to the superior court, or the criminal court of common pleas, by appeal, binding over, or otherwise, shall be taxed the same as in similar cases coming in like manner from justices of the peace; in case of conviction and judgment against the accused, said costs shall be paid by him and payment enforced, as in cases before the superior court, and all fees taxed as such costs by said court, but due to any individual, shall be paid by said city to him, except as herein otherwise provided.

SEC. 191. The city attorney and the assistant city attorney shall each take the oath prescribed by law, for grand jurors, mutatis mutandis, and shall hold office from the dates of their appointment and until others shall be appointed and sworn in their stead. They may be removed by the judge for cause, and if either of them shall willfully neglect any duty imposed upon him by this act, he shall incur a penalty of one hundred dollars for every such neglect, one-half to him who shall prosecute therefor, and the other half to said city, which said penalty may be recovered in any proper action founded on this statute. Either of them may issue subpoenas for witnesses to be sworn before said court, and may require any person informing him of the commission of a crime to make information under oath, and may administer the witness' oath to him. The provisions of section 91 of the general statutes of Connecticut are hereby extended to said city attorney and assistant city attorney, and they shall respectively have all the powers within the limits of the city or town of New Haven that grand jurors have in their several towns by virtue of said section. It shall be the duty of each of them diligently to inquire after and make due presentment or complaint to said city court of all crimes, misdemeanors and other criminal matters whereof said court has jurisdiction or whereupon said court may proceed, whether committed before or after his appointment to office, and to attend to the proper trial and hearing of the same before said court.

SEC. 192. Whenever any breach of any ordinance of said city or of any rule or regulation of the department of health or the department of parks has been committed for which a fixed penalty is prescribed, either of said attorneys may collect and receive the amount of such penalty without a suit or prosecution therefor; and whenever such breach has been committed for which a discretionary penalty is prescribed, either of said attorneys may collect and receive in like manner therefor, the maximum penalty prescribed for such breach. Each of them shall, within thirty days thereafter, render an account of all such penalties received by him, together with the dates and names of the persons paying the same and the several amounts, to the controller.

SEC. 193. Said attorney or said assistant attorney shall in like manner sue for, collect, and receive the amounts due on all bonds payable to the city in criminal matters when the same have been or shall be forfeited. Each of them shall deposit with the controller of said city a bond in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, in form and with surety satisfactory to the board of finance of said city, conditioned for the payment by him to the city of all money belonging to the same coming into his hands as aforesaid, and he shall pay over such money within ten days after the same is received. But no person or corporation shall be accepted by said board of finance as surety on such bond except as provided for in section 159 of this charter. He shall forthwith notify the state's attorney for New Haven county of the forfeiture of any bond of the state in criminal matters before said court.

SEC. 194. Criminal process issued by said city court, or by the judge or clerk thereof, may be served by any member of the police force of said city, or by any proper officer or indifferent person, and may be served in any part of this state; but before any member of said police force shall leave said city to serve such process, he shall obtain permission so to do from the acting chief of police of said city. Any officer or indifferent person, other than paid members of said police force, shall receive the same fees for such service allowed by law to constables in similar cases and any extra expense, necessarily or reasonably incurred in securing an offender and bringing him before said city court, may be paid from the funds of said city, and in the discretion of said court may be taxed, allowed, and collected as a part of the costs.—As amended by act approved April 9, 1901.

SEC. 195. RELATING TO

New Haven and New Haven Harbor.

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A BOARD OF HARBOR COMMISSIONERS FOR NEW HAVEN HARBOR.

SECTION 1. The governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, shall before the first day of July next, appoint five competent persons, resident in the city of New Haven, or in the town of East Haven, who shall constitute a board of harbor commissioners for New Haven harbor, and who shall hold their offices from the dates of their respective appointments, and for the terms of one, two, three, four, and five years, respectively, from the first day of July next, the term of each to be designated at the time of his appointment. The governor shall, in like manner, before the first day of July in every year after this year, appoint a commissioner to continue in office for the term of five years from said day; and in case of any vacancy occurring in the board, by resignation, or otherwise, shall, in the same manner, appoint a commissioner for the residue of the term, and may in the same manner remove a commissioner; provided, that in case of a vacancy occurring when the general assembly is not in session, the governor alone shall have power to fill such vacancy, but the commissioner so appointed shall hold office only until the next session of the general assembly, and until his successor is appointed, unless confirmed by the senate.

SEC. 2. Said board of harbor commissioners shall have the general care and supervision of New Haven harbor and its tide-waters, and of all the flats and lands flowed thereby, in order to prevent and remove unauthorized encroachments and causes of every kind which are liable to interfere with the full navigation of said harbor, or in any way injure its channels, or cause any reduction of its tide-waters. They may, from time to time, make such surveys, examinations, and observations as they may deem necessary, in said harbor, for said purpose, and employ for these purposes competent engineers, and also employ such clerical and other assistance as they may think necessary. They shall have an office in the city of New Haven, where the maps, charts, and plans connected with said harbor, records of all their doings, and all documents relating to their business shall be kept.

SEC. 3. Whenever, in the judgment of said board of harbor commissioners the public good requires, they may proceed to prescribe harbor lines in said harbor, beyond which no wharf, pier, or other structure shall be extended into said harbor, and shall report the same for the consideration of the general assembly at its next session: provided, however, that said commissioners, before drawing any such line, shall appoint a convenient time and place for the hearing of all persons interested, and shall give notice thereof by publication two weeks successively in two or more newspapers published in the city of New Haven, the first publication to be at least twenty days before the time of hearing.

SEC. 4. All persons whatsoever contemplating the building over said harbor and tide-waters, any bridge, wharf, pier or dam, or the filling any flats, or the driving any piles below high water mark, shall, before beginning it, give written notice to said commissioners of the work they intend to do, and submit plans of any proposed wharf or other structure, and of the flats to be filled, and of the mode in which the work is to be performed; and no such work shall be commenced until the plan and mode of performing the same shall be approved in writing by a majority of said commissioners. And the said commissioners shall have power to alter the said plans at their discretion, and to prescribe the direction, limits, and mode of building the wharves and other structures, and all such works shall be executed under the supervision of said commissioners.

SEC. 5. The amount of tide-water displaced by any structure or filling of flats hereafter authorized as aforesaid, shall be ascertained by said commissioners, and they shall, in all cases affecting said New Haven harbor, if they shall deem it necessary, require the parties making the same to make compensation therefor, either by excavating in some part of said harbor, including tide-water channels between high and low water mark, to such an extent as to create a basin for as much tide-water as may be displaced by such structure or filling of flats, and the same shall be done under the direction of said commissioners, or by paying in lieu of performing the work of dredging to restore the displaced tide-water a sufficient sum of money for making such compensation, or by improving the harbor in any other mode to the satisfaction of said commissioners; and all moneys thus paid shall be paid into the treasury of the city of New Haven, and be reserved as a compensation fund for said harbor, and used for that purpose under the direction of said commissioners: provided, that all dredging made for purposes of such compensation for displaced tide-water shall in no wise injure any existing channels, but as far as practicable shall be directed toward their permanent improvement.

SEC. 6. Any erection or work hereafter made in any manner not sanctioned by said commissioners, where their direction is required, as hereinbefore provided, within tide-waters flowing into or through said harbor shall be deemed, and is hereby declared to be, a public nuisance. Said commissioners shall have power to order suits in the name of the state to prevent or stop, by injunction or otherwise, any such erection, or other nuisance in the tide-waters flowing into or through said harbor, and such suits shall be conducted by and at the expense of the city of New Haven.

SEC. 7. Said commissioners are authorized and empowered, whenever they deem it necessary, to apply to Congress for appropriations for protecting and improving said harbor.

SEC. 8. All expenses incurred by said commissioners shall be paid by the city of New Haven in the same manner as is now provided in the charter of said city for the payment of other claims and accounts, but no contracts shall be made, and no acts done by said commissioners which involve the payment of any money from the treasury of said city, except as herein provided, without an appropriation expressly made for that purpose by the court of common council of said city.

SEC. 9. For the purposes of this act New Haven harbor shall be held to include all those lands over which the tide ebbs and flows, lying northerly of a line drawn from the southerly limit of Oyster River Point, upon the westerly side of said harbor, as laid down upon the chart of said harbor, published in the year 1846, by the United States coast survey, thence easterly to Ludington Rock, so-called, and thence to the point called South End, upon the easterly side of said harbor, as laid down upon said map; provided, that the provisions contained in the fourth and fifth sections of this act shall not apply to that portion of said harbor lying southerly of a line drawn from a point two hundred feet southerly from Oyster Point, so-called, thence easterly across said harbor to the signal station of the United States coast survey upon Crane's Bar, so-called: and provided further, that the provisions contained in said sections shall not apply to any wharf already commenced upon the easterly side of said harbor, between said Crane's Bar and the easterly abutment of Tomlinson's bridge, so-called.

SEC. 10. Nothing contained in any of the provisions of this act shall be construed to authorize or empower said commissioners to grant or convey to any person or persons any right or title in or to any of the tide-water flats of said harbor.

SEC. 11. This act shall take effect from its passage.

Approved, June 27, 1872.

SEC. 6. Said board of finance in making appropriations shall each year take into account the amount of bonds to mature, and each year shall make the appropriations so much greater than the proceeds of the tax of one-half of one mill as in their judgment is consistent with the welfare of the city, but in no year shall said board appropriate the proceeds of a tax greater than one mill.

SEC. 7. Said commission shall apply all available funds under its control to the payment of all city, town, and school district bonds as they may mature, investing and holding any unexpended funds to pay any bonds that may subsequently mature.

SEC. 9. All bonds issued under this act shall be issued under the direction of the board of finance, and their proceeds shall not become available until such proceeds shall have been regularly appropriated by the board of finance in the same manner as current income.

AN ACT CONCERNING TENEMENT HOUSES.

SECTION 1. This act may be cited as the Tenement House Act, and its provisions shall apply to all cities of over twenty thousand inhabitants, at the time of the most recent United States census and shall also apply to any city or borough of less than twenty thousand inhabitants if the common council of such city or the board of burgesses of such borough shall by ordinance provide that said act shall so apply to such city or borough.

SEC. 2. Certain words used in this act are defined, for the purpose of this act, as follows: (1) A tenement house is any house or building, or portion thereof, which is rented, leased, let, or hired out, to be occupied, or is arranged or designed to be occupied, or is occupied as the home or residence of three families or more, living independently of each other, and doing their cooking upon the premises, and having a common right in the halls, stairways, or yards. (2) A yard is an open unoccupied space on the same lot with a tenement house, between the extreme rear line of the house and rear line of the lot. (3) A court is an open unoccupied space, other than a yard, on the same lot with a tenement house; a court not extending to the street or yard is an inner court; a court extending to the street or yard is an outer court; if it extends to the street it is a street court; if it extends to the yard it is a yard court. (4) A public hall is a hall, corridor, or passageway not within an apartment. (5) A basement is a story partly, but not more than one-half below the level of the grade. (6) A cellar is a story more than one-half below the level of the grade. (7) The word "shall" is mandatory and not directory, and denotes that the house shall be maintained in all respects according to the mandate, as long as it continues to be a tenement house. (8) In determining the number of stories in a tenement house, a basement or an attic shall be counted as a story if it is occupied or designed to be occupied for living purposes.

SEC. 3. No tenement house hereafter erected shall occupy more than ninety per centum of a corner lot, or more than seventy-five per centum of any other lot less than sixty feet in depth, or more than seventy per centum of any other lot sixty feet or more in depth; provided, that the space occupied by fire escapes shall not be deemed a part of the lot occupied. For the purposes of this section the measurements shall be taken at the ground level, except that where such a building has no basement, and the cellar ceiling is not more than three feet above the grade level, the measurements as to the percentage of the lot occupied may be taken at the level of the second tier of beams. The provisions of this section shall not apply to a tenement house hereafter erected running through from one street to another street; provided, that the lot on which such house is situated does not exceed one hundred feet in depth.

SEC. 4. Behind every tenement house hereafter erected, unless the house extends through from one street to another street, there shall be a yard extending across the entire width of the lot and, except upon a corner lot, at every point open from the ground to the sky unobstructed; but fire escapes or unenclosed outside stairs may project not over five feet from the rear line of the house. The depth of said yard, measured from the extreme rear wall of the house to the rear line of the lot, shall be as set forth in sections five and six of this act.

SEC. 5. Except upon a corner lot, the depth of the yard behind every tenement house hereafter erected, two stories in height, shall be not less than ten feet in every part; and said yard shall be increased in depth one foot for every additional story above two stories in the height of the building.

SEC. 6. The depth of the yard behind every tenement house hereafter erected upon a corner lot shall be not less than ten feet in every part; provided, that where such lot is less than one hundred feet in depth, the depth of the yard may be not less than ten per centum of the depth of such lot, but shall never be less than five feet in every part, nor less than the minimum width of an outer court on the lot line as prescribed by section eight. Where a tenement house hereafter erected on a corner lot has no basement, and the cellar ceiling is not more than three feet above the grade level, said yard may start at the level of the second tier of beams. Where a corner lot is more than fifty feet in width, the yard for that portion in excess of fifty feet shall conform to the provisions of section five of this act.

SEC. 7. No court of a tenement house hereafter erected shall be covered by a roof or skylight, but every such court shall be at every point open from the ground to the sky unobstructed.

SEC. 8. Where one side of an outer court is situated on the lot line, the width of the said court, measured from the lot line to the opposite wall of the building, for tenement houses hereafter erected, shall be not less than four feet in any part, for houses two stories in height; and for every additional story above the two stories in the height of the said building, such width shall be increased six inches throughout the entire height of said court; but this requirement shall not prevent a building from approaching nearer the lot line; provided, that no room in the building obtains its light or ventilation from windows opening upon such narrower court.

SEC. 9. Where an outer court is situated between wings or parts of the same building, or between different buildings on the same lot, the width of the said court, measured from wall to wall, for tenement houses hereafter erected two stories in height, shall be not less than eight feet in any part; and for every additional story above two stories in the height of the said building, such width shall be increased one foot throughout the entire height of the said court.

SEC. 10. Where one side of an inner court is situated on the lot line, the width of the said court, measured from the lot line to the opposite wall of the building, for tenement houses hereafter erected two stories in height, shall be not less than five feet in any part, and the other horizontal dimension shall be not less than ten feet in any part; and for every additional story above two stories in the height of the said building, such width shall be increased one foot throughout the entire height of said court, and the other horizontal dimension shall be increased two feet throughout the entire height of said court.

SEC. 11. Where an inner court is not situated upon the lot line, but is enclosed on all four sides, the least horizontal dimension of the said court, for tenement houses hereafter erected two stories in height, shall be not less than ten feet; and for every additional story above two stories in the height of the said building, the said court shall be increased two feet in each horizontal dimension throughout the entire height of said court.

SEC. 12. Every inner court shall be provided with one or more horizontal in-takes at the bottom. Such in-takes shall always communicate directly with the street or yard, and shall consist of a passageway of not less than five square feet in area, which shall be left open, or if not open there shall be provided in said passageway open grilles or transoms; and such open grilles or transoms shall not be covered over by glass or otherwise.

SEC. 13. In computing the size of courts and yards, and the percentage of a lot which may be built upon, a mutual gangway between two building lots shall be counted as if divided equally between the two adjacent lots. Nothing contained in the foregoing sections concerning outer and inner courts shall be construed as preventing windows at the angles of said courts; provided, that the running length of the wall containing such windows does not exceed six feet. Offsets or recesses in outer or inner courts may be made; provided, that the width of such offsets or recesses shall in every case be equal to or greater than the depth. When a tenement house hereafter erected has no basement, the courts mentioned in the preceding sections may start at the level of the second tier of beams.

SEC. 14. No separate tenement house shall hereafter be erected upon the rear of a lot where there is a tenement house on the front of the said lot, nor upon the front of any such lot upon the rear of which there is such a tenement house, unless the distance between the two tenement houses is at least thirty feet.

SEC. 15. In every tenement house hereafter erected every room, except water-closet compartments and bathrooms, shall have at least one window opening directly upon the street, or upon a yard or court of the same lot, of the dimensions specified in sections four to thirteen, inclusive, of this act; and such windows shall be so located as to properly light all portions of such rooms, and shall have a total area in each room of at least one-eighth of the area of the floor of the room.

SEC. 16. In every tenement house hereafter erected, all rooms, except water-closet compartments and bathrooms, shall be of the following minimum sizes: in each apartment there shall be at least one room containing not less than one hundred and twenty square feet of floor area, and each other room shall contain at least seventy square feet of floor area. Each room shall be in every part not less than eight feet six inches high from the finished floor to the finished ceiling; provided, that an attic room need be eight feet six inches high in but one-half of its area.

SEC. 17. In every tenement house hereafter erected, the public hall upon each floor shall be provided with a window, or a glazed door, opening to the street, the yard, or upon a court of the size prescribed in sections seven to thirteen, inclusive, of this act, unless the hall is within three stories from the roof. In every such tenement house three stories or more in height, where the public hall upon the third floor from the roof is not provided with an outside window or an outside glazed door, there shall be a stair-well extending from this floor to the roof, said stair-well to be at least twelve inches wide over this hall and at least eighteen inches wide over the hall above. All doors leading from public halls not provided with outside windows, and more than two stories below the roof, shall be provided with translucent glass panels of an area of not less than five square feet for each door, or with fixed transoms of translucent glass of an area of not less than five square feet over each door, or such hall shall be lighted by an equivalent amount of translucent glass connecting with a lighted room or rooms. Long and devious hallways shall have such additional provisions as may be necessary to give adequate light, subject to the approval of the building inspector.

SEC. 18. In every tenement house hereafter erected, one at least of the windows provided to light each public hall or part thereof shall be at least ten square feet in area, measured between the stop beads. In every such house where the public halls upon each floor are not provided with windows opening directly to the outer air, there shall be in the roofs, directly over each stair-well, a ventilating skylight provided with ridge ventilators having a minimum opening of forty square inches, or such skylight shall be provided with fixed or movable louvres; the glazed roof of such skylight shall be not less than twenty square feet in area.

SEC. 19. In every tenement house hereafter erected there shall be a water-closet in each apartment of four or more rooms, and at least one water-closet for every two apartments of less than four rooms each. Each watercloset shall be in a separate compartment or bathroom, upon the same floor with the apartment which it accommodates. Except as hereinafter provided, each water-closet compartment or bathroom in any tenement house hereafter erected shall have a window opening directly upon the street, a yard, a court, or upon a vent shaft. Every such window shall be of at least three square feet in area, and shall open freely. A water-closet compartment or bathroom, however, if provided with a separate ventilating flue of non-corroding material and of at least thirty-six square inches in area, leading directly to the roof, may be lighted from an adjoining room or hall by translucent glass in a fixed sash; provided, that the glazed surface shall be of at least twelve square feet in area. Every vent shaft in a tenement house hereafter erected shall be constructed of fireproof material; not more than two water-closets or bathrooms shall open upon such a shaft on one floor of a tenement house, and no two water-closets or bathroom windows opening upon such shaft on the same floor shall be opposite each other. No such vent shaft shall be less than thirty inches in either dimension. If the area of such a shaft is less than twelve square feet, every bathroom or water-closet compartment below the upper story and, if the area is less than twenty-four square feet, every bathroom or water-closet compartment below the second story from the roof, and opening into such shaft, shall be provided with additional light through translucent glass windows of at least four square feet in area, connecting with other portions of the tenement. Every such vent shaft shall be uncovered, or shall be provided with openings at the top equal in total area to the area of the vent shaft, and shall be provided with a horizontal in-take or duct at the bottom communicating with the street or yard, or with a court; such duct or in-take shall be not less than two square feet in area, and shall be so arranged as to be easily cleaned out.

SEC. 20. In every apartment of three or more rooms, in a tenement house hereafter erected, access to every living room and bedroom and to at least one water-closet compartment shall be had without passing through any bedroom.

SEC. 21. In tenement houses hereafter erected, no room in the cellar or in the basement shall be constructed, altered, converted, or occupied for living purposes, unless all of the following conditions are complied with: (1) Such room shall be at least eight feet six inches high, in every part, from the floor to the ceiling. (2) The ceiling of such room shall be at least four feet and six inches above the surface of the street or ground outside of or adjoining the same. (3) All walls surrounding such room shall be damp-proof. (4) The floor of such room shall be damp-proof and water-proof.

SEC. 22. The floor of the cellar or the lowest floor of every tenement house shall be water-tight, and the cellar ceiling shall be plastered, except where the first floor above the cellar is constructed of iron beams and fire-proof filling.

SEC. 23. No building, not used as a tenement house at the time at which this act takes effect, shall be converted to such use unless it complies with the provisions of this act.

SEC. 24. No tenement house shall be altered, added to, or changed so as to diminish the light, ventilation, or court or yard spaces existing before such alterations were made, in any way not approved by the department or officer charged with the execution of this act.

SEC. 25. Before the construction or alteration of a tenement house or the alteration or conversion of a building for use as a tenement house is commenced, the owner, or his agent or architect, shall submit to the building inspector or other local officer authorized to issue building permits, a detailed statement in writing, verified by the affidavit of the person making the same, of the specifications for the construction, and for the lighting and ventilation of such tenement house or building, upon a blank or form to be furnished by such officer, and shall also submit a copy of the plans of such work. Such statement shall give in full the name and residence, by street and number, of the owner or owners of such tenement house or building. If such construction, alteration, or conversion is proposed to be made by any other person than the owner of the land in fee, such statement shall contain the full name and residence, by street and number, not only of the owner of the land, but of every person thus interested in such tenement house. The statements and affidavits herein provided for may be made by the owner, or the person who proposes to make the construction, alteration, or conversion, or by his agent or architect. No person, however, shall be recognized as the agent of the owner unless he shall file with the said officer a written instrument, signed by such owner, designating him as such agent. Such specifications and statements shall be filed with the said officer and shall be deemed public records, but no such specifications or statements shall be removed from the custody of said officer. The said officer shall cause all such plans and specifications to be examined, and if such plans and specifications conform to the provisions of this act and to the building ordinances and regulations, they shall be approved by such officer, and a written certificate to that effect shall be issued to the person submitting the same. The officer may, from time to time, approve changes in any plans and specifications previously approved by him; provided, that the plans and specifications when so changed shall be in conformity with law. The construction, alteration, or conversion of such tenement house, building, or structure, or any part thereof, shall not be commenced until the filing of such specification, plans, and statements, and the approval thereof, as above provided.

SEC. 26. No building hereafter constructed as, or altered into, a tenement house shall be occupied, in whole or in part, for human habitation until the issuance of a certificate by the officer aforesaid that said building conforms in all respects to the requirements of this act. Such certificate shall be issued within ten days after written application therefor, if said building, at the date of such application, shall be entitled thereto.

SEC. 27. If any building hereafter constructed as, or altered into, a tenement house be occupied in whole or in part for human habitation in violation of the last section, during such unlawful occupation no rent shall be recoverable by the owner or lessee of such premises for said period, and no action or special proceedings shall be maintained therefor.

SEC. 28. Nothing in this act shall be construed to abrogate or impair the powers of a local department of health, the fire department, or of the courts or any other lawful authority, to enforce any provisions of any city charter or building ordinances and regulations not inconsistent with this act, or to prevent or punish violations thereof.

SEC. 29. It shall be the duty of every inspector of buildings, fire marshal, or other person authorized to issue building permits, by whatever name known, to enforce the provisions of this act, and to report all violations thereof to the proper prosecuting officer.

SEC. 30. Every owner or lessee of land, and every builder or architect who shall authorize, make, or approve any construction or alteration of any building in violation of this act, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and if any violation of this act remains uncorrected, the violator shall be subject to a renewal of the foregoing penalty every thirty days until the violation is corrected.

SEC. 31. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of labor statistics to collect, keep on file in his office, and at his discretion publish data to be furnished by the officers charged in the several cities with the execution of this act, showing the number of tenement houses for which permits have been asked, the number of plans approved, disapproved, and modified, and any other facts concerning the operation of the law. The records and files of said officers shall at all times be open to the commissioner of labor statistics for the purposes of this section.

SEC. 32. This act shall take effect from its passage.

Approved, June 29, 1905.

14. Duty of corporation counsel.

Be it ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of New Haven:

SECTION 1. All bills against the city shall, where the nature of the case admits of it, contain the items and their respective dates, and shall not otherwise be approved by the board of finance.

SEC. 2. Any claim against the city by reason of the final judgment of a judge or court shall be certified by the corporation counsel to be correct, before being transmitted to the controller.

SEC. 3. When any assessment of damages against the city, for any public improvement, is due and payable to any person or persons, a bill for the amount of damages assessed to each, in excess of the benefits assessed to the same person for the same public improvement, shall be presented to the city clerk, and having been, by the city clerk, compared with the order of assessment and certified to be correct, shall be passed and paid in the same manner as other bills.

SEC. 4. The controller shall keep in books provided for that purpose, accounts with the following subjects, namely: controller, bills payable, bills receivable, city attorney, city court, collector, corporation counsel, civil service board, department of charities and correction, department of public works, department of police, department of fire, department of public parks, department of lamps, department of education, department of public library, fuel, department of health, interest, licenses and permits, liens, printing, registrar of vital statistics, salaries, sewers, special appropriations, stationery, streets, sundry accounts, tax lists 1874-80, tax list of each year, town clerk, treasurer, and with such other subjects as he may from time to time be required to do by the board of finance.

SEC. 5. If the aggregate of bills coming to the hands of the controller duly approved during any month shall exceed the unexpended balance of the appropriation to which they belong, the controller shall report the facts to the board of finance at its next regular session.

SEC. 6. The board of finance may adjust all claims duly presented to them, and allow such sum or sums as they shall find justly due.

They shall not approve of any bill against the city for personal damages or any other cause, unless the same shall have arisen from contract, express or implied, until ordered so to do by the board of aldermen.

No bill shall be approved by said board except in a meeting of the board, all the members having been duly notified and a majority being present.

SEC. 7. In case any person, to whom a claim is due and payable shall be indebted to the city, the city clerk, by the direction of the board of finance, shall withhold the order for payment of such claim until such indebtedness is satisfied.

SEC. 8. In case the board of finance shall find that there is not sufficient money in the hands of the treasurer to pay all the bills duly allowed, they shall instruct the controller in what order the same shall be paid by order on the treasurer, giving preference to the regular officers and employes of the city, and said controller shall obey their instructions.

SEC. 9. The city clerk shall draw orders on the treasurer in favor of the claimants for the amount allowed on each bill by the board of finance, and such orders shall be numbered, corresponding to the classification book.

SEC. 10. In all petitions hereafter brought to the board of aldermen, the petitioner shall write his full name and address, with street and number, upon the petition.

SEC. 11. Whenever any claim for damage to person or property shall be presented against said city, by bill, petition to the board of aldermen, or otherwise, except in cases of assessments provided for in the charter or ordinances of said city, the board of aldermen shall appoint a proper committee to inquire into and report the facts, or refer the same to the committee on claims, provided that no such claim shall be so referred, or considered unless it shall appear by the certificate of the city clerk, indorsed upon the paper or petition, whereby the same is presented to the board of aldermen, that due notice of said claim was reasonably given to him, as required by the statute laws of this state in such cases.

Upon receipt of any such notice, the city clerk shall forthwith transmit the same to the corporation counsel, who shall at once proceed to examine into such claim, and investigate all the circumstances—and any legal questions arising thereon; keeping a written record or memorandum of the facts and results thus ascertained; and when said claim is considered by the committee to which it may be referred, the corporation counsel shall be present, with said record, or memorandum.

Such committee shall notify any person or corporation, who may be liable to appear and be heard in reference to such claim, and to relieve said city from any liability therefor.

SEC. 12. Upon a receipt of a notice of claim for damages arising from any alleged defect in any street, sidewalk, or bridge, the city clerk shall immediately furnish the city engineer, chief of police and corporation counsel with a copy thereof. The city engineer shall immediately, after the receipt of said copy, make a map of the place where such alleged defect existed, unless, in the opinion of the corporation counsel, such map is unnecessary. The chief of police shall immediately, after the receipt of such copy, direct some officer of the police department to investigate such claim, ascertain the facts, and make a written report to the corporation counsel of the said facts and the evidence relating thereto, giving the name and residence of witnesses. Said reports shall be made within ten days after such officer has been directed to make such investigation, and it shall be his duty to make such further investigation and report as the corporation counsel shall direct.

SEC. 13. No claim for damages shall be allowed and paid by said city, unless the corporation counsel is clearly of the opinion that the city is legally liable to pay the amount so allowed, and in no case shall such claim be paid, unless upon proper security to save the city from loss.

No such payment other than by proper judgment of court shall be deemed a precedent binding on the city, in subsequent cases.

SEC. 14. It shall be the duty of the corporation counsel to bring any necessary suit to foreclose any lien, or to enforce any other claim in behalf of said city, except for such forfeitures as it is the duty of the city attorney to collect.

All sums collected by the corporation counsel or the city attorney shall be paid over to the treasurer, his receipts being given therefor, and said counsel or attorney shall forthwith give notice of such payments to the controller, who shall enter the same in the city accounts.

The sand used for mortar in all buildings shall be clean, sharp sand, and shall not be finer than the standard samples kept in the office of the inspector of buildings. Cement mortar shall be made of sand and cement in the proportion of not more than three parts of sand to one of cement, and shall be used immediately after being mixed. Lime mortar shall be made of not more than four parts of sand to one part of lime, and shall not be used until thoroughly slaked. Cement and lime mortar shall be made of one part of lime, one part of cement and three parts of sand to each. EXCAVATIONS FOR BUILDING.

SEC. 57. All excavations shall be properly guarded and protected by the person or persons causing the excavation to be made, so as to prevent the same from becoming dangerous to life or limb, and shall be sheet-piled where necessary to prevent the adjoining earth from caving in.

EXCAVATIONS EXCEEDING TEN FEET.

SEC. 58. Whenever an excavation of either earth or rock for building or other purposes shall be intended to be, or shall be, carried to a depth of more than ten feet below the street curb, the person or persons causing such excavation to be made shall at all times, from the commencement until the completion thereof, if afforded the necessary license to enter on the adjoining land, and not otherwise, at his or their own expense, preserve any adjoining or contiguous wall or walls from injury, and support the same by proper foundations, so that the said wall or walls shall be and remain practically as safe as before such excavation was commenced, whether the said adjoining or contiguous wall or walls are down more or less than ten feet below the street curb.

EXCAVATIONS LESS THAN TEN FEET.

SEC. 59. If such excavation shall not be intended to be, or shall not be, carried to a depth of more than ten feet below the street curb, the owner or owners of such adjoining or contiguous wall or walls shall preserve the same from injury, and so support the same by proper foundations that it or they shall be and remain practically as safe as before such excavation was commenced, and shall be permitted to enter upon the premises where such excavation is being made for that purpose, when necessary.

EXCAVATIONS UNDER PARTY WALLS.

SEC. 60. In case an adjoining party wall is intended to be used by the person or persons causing the excavation to be made, and such party wall is in good condition and sufficient for the uses of the adjoining building, then, and in such case, the person or persons causing the excavations to be made shall, at his or their own expense, preserve such party wall from injury and support the same by proper foundations, so that said party wall shall be and remain practically as safe as before the excavation was commenced.

INSPECTOR TO PROTECT EXISTING WALLS.

SEC. 61. If the person or persons whose duty it shall be to preserve or protect any wall or walls from injury shall neglect or fail so to do, after having had a notice of twenty-four hours from the inspector of buildings, then the inspector of buildings may enter upon the premises and employ such labor and furnish such materials, and take such steps as, in his judgment, may be necessary to make the same safe and secure, or to prevent the same from becoming unsafe or dangerous, at the expense of the person or persons whose duty it is to keep the same safe and secure. Any party doing the said work, or any part thereof, under and by the direction of the said inspector, may bring and maintain an action against the person or persons owning the land whose duty it is to protect the wall, to recover the value of the work done and materials furnished, in and about said premises, in the same manner as if he had been employed to do the said work by the said person or persons.

EXCAVATION FOR AREA.

SEC. 62. When an excavation is made on any lot, and it is intended to use part of such excavation, on either side or rear of the lot, as an area, or space for light and air, the person or persons causing such excavation to be made shall build at his or their own expense, a retaining wall of sufficient strength to support the adjoining earth; and each retaining wall shall be carried to the height of the adjoining earth, and be properly protected or capped on top.

FOUNDATION WALLS.

SEC. 63. Foundation walls shall be construed to include all walls and piers built below the curb level or nearest tier of beams to the curb, to serve as supports for walls, piers, columns, girders, posts or beams. Foundation walls shall be built of stone or brick.

THICKNESS OF WALLS.

SEC. 64. Foundation walls built of stone shall be at least eight inches thicker than the wall next above them to a depth of twelve feet below the curb level; and for every additional ten feet, or part thereof, deeper, they shall be increased four inches in thickness. If built of brick, they shall be at least four inches thicker than the wall next above them to a depth of twelve feet below the curb level; and for every additional ten feet, or part thereof, deeper, they shall be increased four inches thicker.

CONSTRUCTION OF WALLS.

SEC. 65. The footing or base course of foundation walls shall be of stone or concrete, or both, or of concrete and stepped-up brick work, of sufficient thickness and area to safely bear the weight to be imposed thereon; if the footing or base course be of concrete, the concrete shall not be less than twelve inches thick; if of stone, the stones shall not be less than two by three feet, and at least eight inches in thickness for walls, and at least twelve inches wider than the bottom width of said walls, and not less than ten inches in thickness if under piers, columns or posts, and at least twelve inches wider on all sides than the bottom width of said piers, columns or posts. All base stones shall be well bedded and laid crosswise, edge to edge. If stepped-up footings of brick are used in place of stone, above the concrete, the off-sets, if laid in single courses, shall each not exceed one and one-half inches, or if laid in double courses, shall not exceed three inches, starting with the brickwork covering the entire width of the concrete, so as to properly distribute the load to be imposed thereon.

CONSTRUCTION OF PIERS.

SEC. 66. If, in place of a continuous foundation wall, isolated piers are to be built to support the superstructure, where the nature of the ground and the character of the building make it necessary, inverted arches shall be turned between the piers, at least twelve inches thick and of the full width of the piers, and resting upon a continuous bed of concrete of sufficient area, and at least eighteen inches thick; or two footing courses of large stone may be used, the bottom course to be laid crosswise, edge to edge, and the top course laid lengthwise, end to end; or one course of concrete and one course of stone. The stone shall not be less than ten inches thick in each course, and the concrete shall not be less than eighteen inches thick, and the area of the lower course shall be equal to the area of the base course that would be required under a continuous wall, and the outside pier shall be secured to the second piers with suitable iron rods and plates.

USE OF PIERS IN ANY PART OF STRUCTURE.

SEC. 67. All piers shall be built of stone or good, hard, well-burnt brick, laid in cement mortar. Every pier built of brick, containing less than nine superficial feet at the base, supporting any beam, girder, arch or column on which a wall rests, or lintel spanning an opening over ten feet and supporting a wall, shall at intervals of not over thirty inches apart in height have built into it a bond stone not less than four inches thick, or a cast iron plate of sufficient strength, and the full size of the piers. Isolated brick piers shall not exceed in height eight times their least dimensions. Stone piers or posts for the support of posts or columns above shall not be used in the interior of any building. Where walls or piers are built of coursed stone, with dressed level beds and vertical joints, the inspector of buildings shall have the right to allow such walls or piers to be built of a less thickness than specified for brick work, but in no case shall said walls or piers be less than three quarters of the thickness provided for brick work.

HEADERS.

SEC. 68. All stone walls twenty-four inches or less in thickness shall have at least one header extending through the wall in every three feet in height from the bottom of the wall, and in every four feet in length, and if over twenty-four inches in thickness, shall have one header for every six superficial feet on both sides of the wall, laid on top of each other to bond together, and running into the wall at least two feet. All headers shall be at least eighteen inches in width and eight inches in thickness and consist of good flat stones. No stone shall be laid in such walls in any other position than on its natural bed.

DEPTH OF WALLS.

SEC. 69. Every building except buildings erected upon wharves or piers on a water-front, shall have foundations laid not less than four feet below the surface of the ground, on the solid earth or on level surface of rock, or upon piles of ranging timbers when solid earth or rock is not obtainable for foundations.

WALLS ON PILES.

SEC. 70. Piles intended for a wall, pier or post to rest upon, shall not be less than six inches in diameter at the smallest end, and shall be spaced not more than thirty-six inches on centers, or nearer if required by the inspector of buildings, and shall be driven to a solid bearing. No pile shall be weighted with a load exceeding forty thousand pounds. The tops of all piles shall be cut off below the lowest water line. When required, concrete shall be rammed down in the interspaces between the heads of the piles to a depth and thickness of not less than twelve inches, and for one foot in width outside of the piles. Where ranging and capping timbers are laid on piles for foundations, they shall be of hard wood, not less than six inches thick, and properly joined together and their tops laid below the water line. When crib footings of iron or steel are used below the water level, the same shall be entirely coated with coal tar, paraffine varnish, or other suitable preparations before being placed in position. When footings of iron and steel for columns are placed below the water level, they shall be similarly coated for preservation against rust.

CONNECTIONS WITH SEWERS.

SEC. 71. Before the walls of buildings are carried up above the foundation walls, the cellars shall be connected with the street sewers. Should there be no sewer in the street, or if the cellars are below water, or below the sewer level, then provision shall be made by the owner to prevent water accumulating in the cellars to the injury of the foundations.

VAULTS UNDER SIDEWALKS.

SEC. 72. In buildings where the space under the sidewalk is utilized, a sufficient stone or brick wall shall be built to retain the roadway of the street, and the side, end or party walls of such building shall extend under the sidewalk of sufficient thickness to such wall. The roofs of all vaults shall be of incombustible material. Openings in the roofs of vaults for the admission of coal or light shall be covered with glass to measure not more than four square inches each, set in iron frames or with iron covers having a rough surface, and rabbetted flush with the sidewalk. When areas are covered over, iron, or iron and glass combined, stone or other incombustible material shall be used, and sufficient strength in such covering shall be provided to insure safety to persons walking on the same, and to carry the loads which may be placed thereon. Open areas shall be properly protected with suitable railings.

THICKNESS OF WALLS FOR HOUSES.

SEC. 73. The walls of all buildings which are to be used for residence purposes, and also school buildings, twenty-six feet or less in width between bearing walls, shall not be less in thickness than the number of inches given in the following table:

Outside, Party and Division Walls.	Base- ment.		1st story.	2nd story.	3rd story.	4th story.	5th story.	6th story.	7th story.	8th story.	9th story.	10th story.

NON-BEARING WALLS.

SEC. 74. All non-bearing walls of buildings hereinbefore specified may be four inches less in thickness; provided, however, that none are less than twelve inches thick, except as hereinafter specified.

PARTITION WALLS.

SEC. 75. Eight-inch brick partition walls may be built to support the beams in buildings used for residence purposes in which the distance between the walls is not over thirty-three feet; provided, that no clear span is over twenty-six feet; but no such partition wall shall be built having an eight-inch thick portion measuring vertically more than forty feet. This clause shall not be construed to prevent the use of iron girders or iron girders and columns, or piers of masonry, for the support of the walls and ceiling over any room which has a clear span of more than twenty-six feet between walls. If the clear span is to be over twenty-six feet, then the bearing walls shall be increased four inches in thickness for every twelve and one-half feet or part thereof that said span is over twenty-six feet.

THICKNESS OF WALLS FOR BUSINESS BUILDINGS.

SEC. 76. The walls of all business and manufacturing buildings, warehouses, stores, factories and stables, twenty-five feet or less in width between walls or bearings, shall not be less in thickness than the number of inches given in the following table:

Outside, Party and Division Walls.	Base- ment.		1st story.	2nd story.	3rd story.	4th story.	5th story.	6th story.	7th story.	8th story.	9th story.	10th story.

WALLS INCREASED BY LENGTH OF SPAN.

SEC. 77. If there is to be a clear span of over twenty-five feet between walls, the bearing walls shall be four inches more in thickness than is in this section specified for every twelve and one-half feet, or fraction thereof, that said walls are more than twenty-five feet apart. All buildings, not excepting dwellings, that are over one hundred and five feet in depth, without a cross wall, or proper piers or buttresses, shall have the side or bearing walls increased in thickness four inches more than is specified in the respective sections of this title for the thickness of walls for every one hundred and five feet, or part thereof, that the said buildings are over one hundred and five feet in depth. In all business and manufacturing buildings, warehouses, stores, factories and stables, over twenty-five feet in width between walls in which there shall be brick partition walls, or girders supported on iron or wooden columns, or piers of masonry, and girders, shall be made of sufficient strength and size to bear safely the weight and any lateral strain to be imposed upon them. In case iron or wooden girders, supported by iron or wooden columns, or piers of masonry, are substituted in place of brick partition walls, the building shall not exceed ten thousand feet area on the ground floor, except in case of fire-proof buildings which may be constructed as hereinafter provided for in section 104 of this chapter. In case the walls of any building are less than twenty-five feet apart, and less than forty feet in depth, or there are cross walls which intersect the wall, not more than forty feet distant or between the same, or piers or buttresses built into the walls, the interior walls may be reduced in thickness in just proportion to the number of cross walls, piers or buttresses, and their nearness to each other; provided, however, that this clause shall not apply to walls below sixty feet in height, and that no such wall shall be less than twelve inches thick at the top, and gradually increased in thickness by set-offs to the bottom; and the inspector of buildings is hereby authorized and empowered to decide (except where herein otherwise provided for) how much the walls herein mentioned may be permitted to be reduced in thickness, according to the peculiar circumstances of each case, without endangering the strength and safety of the building.

WALLS OF CHURCHES, THEATRES, ETC.

SEC. 78. The walls of churches, theatres, foundries, machine shops, car houses, armories, public markets not over two stories in height, and other buildings of a public character shall in no case be less than is in this Act specified for warehouses; and said buildings shall have in addition thereto, such piers or buttresses as, in the judgment of the inspector of buildings, may be necessary to make a safe and substantial building.

WALLS OF ONE STORY STRUCTURES.

SEC. 79. One story structures, not exceeding a height of fifteen feet, may be built with eight-inch walls when the bearing walls are not more than nineteen feet apart, and the length of the eight-inch bearing wall does not exceed forty-five feet.

CURTAIN WALLS.

SEC. 80. Curtain walls of brick built between iron or steel columns, shall be not less than twelve inches thick for sixty feet of the uppermost height thereof, or to the nearest tier of beams to that measurement, and every lower section of sixty feet or to the nearest tier of beams to that measurement of four inches more than is required for the section next above it.

BONDING BRICK WALLS.

SEC. 81. In all brick walls every sixth course shall be a heading course, except where walls are faced with brick in running bond, in which latter case every sixth course shall be bonded into the backing by cutting the course of the face brick and putting in diagonal headers behind the same, or by splitting the face brick in half and backing the same with a continuous row of headers.

THICKNESS OF ASHLAR.

SEC. 82. All stone used for the facing of any building, and known as ashlar, shall not be less than four inches thick. Stone ashlar shall be anchored to the backing and the backing shall be of such thickness as to make the walls (independent of the ashlar) conform to the thickness required by this chapter. Iron ashlar plates in imitation of stone ashlar on the face of a wall shall be backed up with the same thickness of brick work as stone ashlar.

USE OF EXISTING PARTY WALLS.

SEC. 83. Walls heretofore built for or used as party walls, whose thickness at the time of their erection was in accordance with the requirements of the then existing laws, but which are not in accordance with the requirements of this title, may be used if in good condition for the ordinary uses of party walls, provided the height of the same be not increased. In case it is desired to increase the height of existing party or independent walls, which walls are less in thickness than required under this title, the same shall be done by a lining of brickwork to form a combined thickness with the old wall of not less than four inches more than the thickness required for a new wall corresponding with the total height of the wall when so increased in height. The said lining shall be supported on proper foundations and carried up to such height as the inspector of buildings may require. No lining shall be less than eight inches in thickness, and all lining shall be laid up in cement mortar and thoroughly anchored to the old brick walls with suitable wrought iron anchors, placed two feet apart and properly fastened or driven into the old walls in rows alternating vertically and horizontally with each other, the old walls being first cleaned of plaster or other coatings where any lining is to be built against the same.

WALLS TO BE BUILT UNIFORMLY AND BONDED.

SEC. 84. In no case shall any wall or walls of any building be carried up more than two stories in advance of any other wall, except by permission of the inspector of buildings. The front, rear, side and party walls shall be properly bonded together, or anchored to each other every six feet in their height by wrought-iron tie anchors, not less than one and a half inches by three-eighths of an inch in size, and not less than twenty-four inches long.

WALLS TO BE BRACED DURING CONSTRUCTION.

SEC. 85. The walls of every building, during the erection or alteration thereof, shall be strongly braced from the beams of each story, and when required, shall also be braced from the outside, until the building is inclosed. The roof tier of wooden beams shall be safely anchored with plank or joist to the beams of the story below until the building is inclosed.

Every temporary support placed under any structure, wall, girder or beam, during the erection, finishing, alteration or repairing of any building or structure, or any part thereof, shall be of sufficient strength to safely carry the load to be placed thereon.

HEIGHT OF STORIES.

SEC. 86. The height of all stories for all given thicknesses of walls must not exceed eleven feet in the clear for the basement, seventeen feet in the clear for the first story, fourteen feet in the clear for the second story, and twelve feet in the clear in all stories above the second. If any story exceed these heights respectively the walls of such story and the walls of all stories below the same shall be increased four inches in thickness additional to the thicknesses already mentioned.

WALLS OF LIGHT OR VENT SHAFTS.

SEC. 87. In every building hereafter erected, all the walls or partitions forming interior light or vent shafts shall be built of brick or such other fire-proof materials as may be approved by the inspector of buildings. The walls of all light or vent shafts, whether exterior or interior, hereafter erected, shall be carried up not less than three feet above the level of the roof.

PARTITION WALLS.

SEC. 88. Eight-inch brick and six-inch and four-inch hollow tile partition walls of hard-burnt clay or porous terra cotta may be built, not exceeding in their vertical portion a measurement of fifty, thirty-six and twenty-four feet respectively, and in their horizontal measurement a length not exceeding seventy-five feet, unless strengthened by proper cross walls, piers or buttresses bonded into same. All such walls shall be carried on proper foundations or on iron girders, or on iron girders and columns or piers of masonry. One line of fore and aft partitions in the cellar or lowest story, supporting stud partitions above, in all buildings over eighteen feet between bearing walls in the cellar or lowest story, hereafter erected, shall be constructed of brick not less than eight inches thick, or piers of brick with openings arched over below the underside of the first tier of beams, or piers of brick, or iron columns, with wooden girders when the first tier of floor beams are of wood, or iron or steel girders when the floor beams are of iron or steel, or rolled iron or steel beams of sufficient strength to span the entire width for the first tier of beams may be used, and the stairs shall be inclosed by a suitable brick wall carried up to the top of the tier of beams nearest the curb line.

Fore and aft stud partitions and such other main stud partitions as may be required by the inspector of buildings, which may be placed in the cellar or lowest story of any building, shall have good solid stone or brick foundation walls under the same, which shall be built up to the top of the floor beams or sleepers, and the sills of said partitions shall be of yellow pine or other suitable hard wood; but if the walls are built five inches higher of brick than top of the floor beams or sleepers, any wooden sill may be used on which the studs shall be set. Fore and aft stud partitions that rest directly over each other shall run through the wooden floor beams and rest on the plate of the partition below. All girders supporting the first tier of wooden beams in buildings shall be supported by brick piers, or iron, locust or other suitable hard wood posts of sufficient strength on proper foundations.

RECESSES AND CHASES IN WALLS.

SEC. 89. Recesses for stairways or elevators may be left in the foundation or cellar walls of all buildings, but in no case shall the walls be of less thickness than the walls of the third story, unless reinforced by additional piers, with iron girders or iron columns and girders, securely anchored to walls on each side of recess. No chase for water or other pipes shall be made in any wall more than one-third of its thickness, and the chases around said pipe or pipes shall be filled up with solid masonry for the space of one foot at the top and bottom of each story. Recesses for alcoves and similar purposes shall in no case have less than eight inches of brick work at the back of such recesses, and provided that such recesses shall not be more than eight feet in width, and shall be arched over and not carried up higher than eighteen inches below the bottom of the beams of the floor next above. The aggregate area of recesses in any wall shall not exceed one-fourth of the whole area of the face of the wall on any story, nor shall any such recess be made within a distance of six feet from any other one in the same wall.

OPENINGS FOR DOORS AND WINDOWS.

SEC. 90. Openings for doors and windows in all buildings, except as otherwise provided, shall have good and sufficient arches of stone, brick or terra cotta, well built and keyed with good and sufficient abutments, or lintels of stone as follows: For an opening not more than four feet in width, the lintel shall not be less than eight inches in height; and for an opening not more than six feet in width, the lintel shall not be less than twelve inches in height; and for an opening exceeding six feet in width, and not more than eight feet in width, the lintel shall be the full thickness of the wall to be supported, and not less than fifteen inches in height. Every stone lintel over such opening six feet or less in width, in all walls, shall not be less than four inches thick, and shall have a bearing at each end of not less than five inches on the wall. On the inside of all openings in which the stone lintel shall be less than the thickness of the wall to be supported, there shall be a good timber lintel on the inside of the stone lintel, which shall rest at each end not more than three inches on any wall, and shall be chamfered at each end, and shall have a double row-lock or bonded arch turned over the timber lintel; or the inside lintel may be of cast-iron, and in such case stone blocks or cast-iron plates shall not be required at the ends where the lintel rests on the walls provided the opening is not more than six feet in width.

PROTECTION FROM FIRES.

SEC. 91. In all furred or studded walls the course of brick above the under side and below the top of each tier of floor beams shall project the thickness of the furring or studs, to more effectually prevent the spread of fire. The walls and piers of all buildings shall be properly bonded and solidly put together with close joints filled with mortar. They shall be built to a line and be carried up plumb and straight. The walls of each story shall be built up the full thickness to the top of the beams above.

CELLAR FLOOR AND CEILINGS.

SEC. 92. The floor of the cellar or the lowest story in every dwelling house, tenement house, apartment house, lodging house and hotel hereafter erected, shall be brick paved or concreted with suitable materials. The ceiling over every cellar or lowest floor in dwelling houses more than three stories in height, when the beams are of wood, shall be lathed with metal lath and plastered thereon with a heavy coat of brown mortar of good materials.

BACKING FOR WAINSCOTING.

SEC. 93. When wood wainscoting is used in any building hereafter erected, the surface of the wall or partition behind such wainscoting shall be plastered down to the floor line, and any intervening space between the said plastering and wainscoting shall be filled in solid with incombustible material.

FIRE STOPS.

SEC. 94. All buildings in the fire district hereafter built shall have fire stops of incombustible material at each floor, from the bottom of the floor joists to three inches above the top of the same. Said fire stops at each floor shall fill the space full between all of the studding, and between all furring on external walls of the building and throughout the interior wherever the floor joists have a bearing. All buildings outside the fire district hereafter built shall have a fire stop similar to the above at the first floor, and at each floor above the first shall have a smoke stop of wood the full width of studding and not less than two inches thick. An incombustible fire stop shall be put around all vertical piping at each floor in all buildings. All ventilation ducts or pipes shall be of incombustible materials in all buildings.

BUILDINGS FOR RESIDENCES OVER STORES.

SEC. 95. All buildings three stories in height and over, which are used for residence purposes over a store, or stores, shall have the whole space of the second story floor over said store or stores protected by an approved fire-proof material, or a layer at least one inch thick of tile, brick, terra cotta or like fire-made material; plaster, cement, cinder, or ashes, or a combination of the same, laid between the under and upper flooring or between the joists.

AUTHORITIES.

SEC. 96. The dimensions of each piece or combination of materials required shall be ascertained by computation according to the rules and data given in Haswell's Mechanics' and Engineers' Pocket Book, Trautwine's Engineers' Pocket Book, or Kidder's Architects' and Builders' Pocket Book, except as may be otherwise provided in this title.

Stresses for materials and forms of same not herein mentioned shall be those determined by the best modern practice.

FACTORS OF SAFETY.

SEC. 97. The factors of safety shall be as one to four for all beams, girders and other pieces subject to a traverse strain; as one to four for all posts, columns, or other vertical supports when of wrought-iron or rolled steel, and as one to six for cast-iron posts, columns or other vertical supports; as one to five for other materials subject to a compression strain, and as one to six for tie-rods, tie-beams, and other pieces subject to a tensile strain.

STRENGTH OF COLUMNS.

SEC. 98. The strength of all columns and posts shall be computed according to Gordon's formula, and the crushing weights in pounds to the square inch of section, used as coefficients in said formula, shall not exceed the following for materials named, namely:

	Pounds.
Cast-iron	80,000
Rolled steel	50,000
Wrought or rolled iron	40,000
American oak	4,500
Pitch, or Georgia yellow pine	5,000
White pine	3,500
Spruce	4,000

STRENGTH OF BEAMS.

SEC. 99. The breaking load in pounds applied at the center of wooden beams and girders shall be computed according to the following formula, namely:

$$\text{Breaking load} = \frac{b d^2 a}{L} \text{ in which}$$

b = breadth of beam in inches.

d = depth of beam in inches.

L = to span to center of bearings in feet.

The values of A for the several woods are as follows, namely:

	Pounds.
Hemlock	212
Spruce	280
White pine	240
Pitch, or Georgia yellow pine	400
American oak	300

The wooden beams and girders carrying a uniformly distributed load the constants will be doubled.

STRENGTH OF FLOORS AND ROOFS.

SEC. 100. In every building to be used as a dwelling house, tenement house, or lodging house, each floor shall be of sufficient strength to bear safely upon every superficial foot not less than sixty pounds; if to be used as a schoolhouse or place of instruction, not less than seventy five pounds upon every superficial foot; if to be used as a hotel or apartment-house not less than sixty pounds upon every superficial foot and one hundred pounds upon every superficial foot in all halls, corridors, offices, dining rooms, cafes and in all other rooms and spaces for public use; if to be used as a place of public assembly not less than one hundred and ten pounds upon every superficial foot; if to be used for ordinary stores, light manufacturing and light storage not less than one hundred and twenty pounds upon every superficial foot; if to be used as a store where heavy materials are kept or stored, warehouse, factory or for any other manufacturing or commercial purpose, not less than one hundred and fifty pounds upon every superficial foot.

Every floor shall be of sufficient strength to bear safely the weight to be imposed thereon in addition to the weight of the materials of which the floor is composed.

The strength of factory floors intended to carry running machinery shall be increased above the minimum given to be transmitted to the floor as may be required by the inspector of buildings.

The roof of all buildings shall be proportioned to bear safely forty pounds upon every superficial foot of their surface in addition to the weight of the material composing the same.

WEIGHT THAT FLOOR WILL SUSTAIN.

SEC. 101. In all warehouses, storehouses, factories, workshops, stores, and other buildings where heavy materials are kept or stored, or machinery introduced, the weight that each floor will safely sustain upon each superficial foot thereof shall be estimated by the owner, or occupant, or by a competent person employed by the owner, or occupant. Before any building hereafter erected is occupied, and used, in whole or in part, for any of the purposes aforesaid, and before any building erected prior to the passage of this act, but not at such time occupied for any of the aforesaid purposes, is occupied or used, in whole or in part, for any of said purposes, the weight that each floor will safely sustain upon each superficial foot thereof shall be ascertained and posted in a conspicuous place on each story of the building to which it relates. The weight placed on any of the floors of any building shall be safely distributed thereon, and the inspector of buildings may require the owner or occupant of any building, or of any portion thereof, to re-distribute where he may deem the same to be necessary for the protection of life and property.

WEIGHT OF BUILDING MATERIAL.

SEC. 102. In computing the weight of walls, a cubic foot of brick work shall be deemed to weigh one hundred and fifteen pounds. Sandstone, white marble, granite and other kinds of building stone shall be deemed to weigh one hundred and sixty pounds per cubic foot. The safe-bearing load to apply to good brick work shall be taken at eight tons per superficial foot, when good lime mortar is used; eleven and one-half tons per superficial foot, when good lime and cement mortar mixed is used; and fifteen tons per superficial foot when good cement mortar is used.

SAFE BEARING LOADS FOR EARTH AND CONCRETE.

SEC. 103. Good, solid, natural earth shall be deemed to safely sustain a load of four tons to the superficial foot, or as otherwise determined by the inspector of buildings, and the width of the footing courses shall be at least sufficient to meet this requirement.

The safe-bearing load to apply to good concrete shall be taken at eleven tons per superficial foot.

BUILDINGS TO BE FIREPROOF.

SEC. 104. Every building hereafter erected or altered to be used as a hotel or apartment house, the height of which exceeds sixty feet; and every building hereafter erected or altered to be used as a schoolhouse, place of instruction, hospital, asylum, or institution for the treatment of persons, the height of which exceeds forty-five feet; and every other building the height of which exceeds seventy-five feet, except grain elevators and church spires, shall be built fireproof. Said fireproof construction to consist of non-combustible materials throughout, except that wood may be used for under and surface floors, window and door frames, sashes, doors, standing finish such as architraves or trim, hand-rails for stairs, necessary sleepers bedded in concrete or other approved non-combustible material, and for isolated furring blocks bedded in the plaster. There shall be no air space behind or surrounding any woodwork.

FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION AND FIREPROOFING.

SEC. 105. The floors and roofs of all fireproof buildings shall be constructed of iron or steel beams, with brick, hard-burnt clay, or porous terra cotta arches, or of iron or steel beams with wrought-iron or steel bars, wire strands, expanded metal or wire cloth in approved combination with other non-combustible material, provided, however, that any system of fireproof floor construction consisting of a combination of metal and non-combustible material shall be subject to the approval of the inspector of buildings before being used.

All constructional iron or steel work shall be protected in every part at least two inches in thickness of hard-burnt clay, porous terra cotta, or other approved fireproof material allowed to be used for the filling between the beams under the provisions of this section, such incasing material to be properly secured to the iron and steel work. In the case of columns the extreme outer edge of lugs, brackets, and similar supporting metal may project to within seven-eighths of an inch of the surface of the fireproofing.

Brick, hard-burnt clay, and porous terra cotta arches to be laid on centers with close joints well filled with Portland cement mortar in the proportions of not more than two of sand to one of cement by measure. The arches constructed in such a manner that the key blocks shall always fall in the central portion.

IRON AND STEEL CONSTRUCTION—FIBER STRESS FOR STEEL AND IRON.

SEC. 106. All girders, beams, corbels, brackets and trusses, if made of steel, shall be so proportioned that the maximum fiber stress will not exceed 16,000 pounds per square inch; or if made of rolled or wrought-iron, the maximum fiber stress shall not exceed 12,000 pounds per square inch.

Iron or steel floor beams shall be so arranged as to spacing and length of beams that the load to be supported by them, together with the weights of the materials used in the construction of the said floors, shall not cause a deflection of the said beams of more than one-thirtieth of an inch per linear foot of span; and they shall be tied together at intervals of not more than eight times the depth of the beam.

MAXIMUM STRESSES IN RIVETED PLATE GIRDERS.

SEC. 107. The maximum stresses in riveted plate girders shall not exceed the following, namely: Stresses in top and bottom flanges 14,000 pounds per square inch for steel, and 12,000 pounds per square inch for iron, net area in each case; shearing stress in web 9,000 pounds per square inch for steel, and 6,000 pounds per square inch for iron, but no web plate shall be less than three-eighths of an inch in thickness. Riveted plate girders shall be proportioned upon the supposition that the bending on flanges strains are resisted entirely by the upper and lower flanges, and that the shearing strains are resisted entirely by the web plate. No part of the web shall be estimated as flange area. The distance between the centers of gravity of the flange areas shall be considered as the effective depth of the girder. Rivets in plate girders shall not be less than three-quarters of an inch in diameter.

The maximum stress per square inch of rivet area (single shear) shall not exceed the following for all kinds of riveted work, namely: For shop driven rivets 10,000 pounds for steel and 7,500 pounds for iron, and for field driven rivets 8,000 pounds for steel, and 6,000 pounds for iron. The maximum direct bearing for rivets and pins shall not exceed 20,000 pounds per square inch for steel, and 15,000 pounds per square inch for wrought-iron.

SKELETON CONSTRUCTION.

SEC. 108. Where columns are used to support iron or steel girders carrying inclosure walls, the said columns shall be of cast-iron, wrought-iron, or rolled steel, and on their exposed outer and inner surfaces be constructed to resist fire by having a casing of brickwork not less than eight inches in thickness on the outer surfaces, nor less than four inches in thickness on the inner surfaces, and all bonded into the brickwork of the inclosure walls. The exposed sides of the iron or steel girders shall be similarly covered in with brickwork not less than four inches in thickness on the outer surfaces and tied and bonded, but the extreme outer edge of the flanges of beams, or plates or angles connected to the beams, may project to within two inches of the outside surface of the brick casing. The inside surfaces of girders may be similarly covered with brickwork, or if projecting inside of the wall, they shall be protected by terra cotta, concrete or other fireproof material. Girders for the support of the inclosure walls shall be placed at the floor line of each story.

STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON COLUMNS.

SEC. 109. No part of a steel or wrought-iron column shall be less than one-quarter of an inch thick. No wrought-iron or rolled steel column shall have an unsupported length of more than forty times its least lateral dimension or diameter, except in such cases as the inspector of buildings may specially allow a greater unsupported length. The ends of all columns shall be faced to a plane surface at right angles to the axis of the columns and the connection between them shall be made with splice plates. The joint may be effected by rivets of sufficient size and number to transmit the entire stress, and then the splice plates shall be equal in sectional area to the area of column spliced. When the section of the columns to be spliced is such that spliced plates cannot be used, a connection formed of plates and angles may be used, designed to properly distribute the stress. No material, whether in the body of the column or used as lattice-bar or stay-plate, shall be used in any wrought-iron or steel column of less thickness than one-thirty-second of its unsupported width measured between centers of rivets transversely, or one sixteenth the distance between centers of rivets in the direction of the stress. Stay-plates are to have not less than four rivets, and are to be spaced so that the ratio of length by the least radius of gyration of the parts connected does not exceed forty; the distance between nearest rivets of two stay-plates shall in this case be considered as length. Steel and wrought-iron columns shall be made in one, two or three-story lengths, and the materials shall be rolled in one length wherever practicable to avoid intermediate splices. Where any part of the section of a column projects beyond that of the column below, the difference shall be made up by filling plates secured to column by the proper number of rivets. Shoes of iron or steel, as described for cast-iron columns, or built shoes of plates and shapes may be used, complying with the same requirements.

CAST-IRON COLUMNS.

SEC. 110. Cast-iron columns shall not have less diameter than five inches, or less thickness than three-quarters of an inch. Nor shall they have an unsupported length of more than twenty times their least lateral dimensions or diameter, except the same may form part of an elevator inclosure or staircase, and also except in such cases as the inspector of buildings may specially allow a greater unsupported length. All cast-iron columns shall be of good workmanship and material. The top and bottom flanges, seats and lugs shall be of ample strength, reinforced by fillets and brackets; they shall be not less than one inch in thickness when finished. All columns must be faced at the ends to a true surface perpendicular to the axis of the column. Column joints shall be secured by not less than four bolts each, not less than three-quarters of an inch in diameter. The holes for these bolts shall be drilled to a template. The core of a column below a joint shall be not larger than the core of the column above and the metal shall be tapered down for a distance of not less than six inches, or a joint plate may be inserted of sufficient strength to distribute the load. The thickness of metal shall be not less than one-twelfth the diameter or the greatest lateral dimension of cross section, but never less than three-quarters of an inch. Wherever the core of a cast-iron column has shifted more than one-fourth the thickness of the shell, the strength shall be computed assuming the thickness of metal all around equal to the thinnest part, and the column shall be condemned if this computation shows the strength to be less than required by this ordinance. Wherever blowholes or imperfections are found in a cast-iron column which reduces the area of the cross-section at that point more than ten per cent., such column shall be condemned. Cast-iron posts or columns not cast with one open side or back, before being set up in place, shall have a three-eighths of an inch hole drilled in the shaft of each post or column, by the manufacturer or contractor furnishing the same, to exhibit the thickness of the castings; and any other similar sized hole or holes which the inspector of buildings may require, shall be drilled in the said posts or columns by the said manufacturer or contractor at his own expense.

Iron or steel shoes or plates shall be used under the bottom tier of columns to properly distribute the load on the foundation. Shoes shall be placed on top.

DOUBLE COLUMNS.

SEC. 111. In all buildings hereafter erected or altered, where any iron or steel column or columns are used to support a wall or part thereof, whether the same be an exterior or an interior wall, and columns located below the level of the sidewalk which are used to support exterior walls or arches over vaults, the said column or columns shall be either constructed double, that is, an outer and an inner column, the inner column alone to be of sufficient strength to sustain safely the weight to be imposed thereon, and the outer columns shall be one inch shorter than the inner columns, or such other iron or steel column of sufficient strength, and protected with not less than two inches of fireproof material securely applied, except that double or protected columns shall not be required for walls fronting on streets or courts.

PARTY WALL POSTS.

SEC. 112. If iron or steel posts are to be used as party posts in front of a party wall, and intended for two buildings, then the said posts shall be not less in width than the thickness of the party wall, nor less in depth than the thickness of the wall to be supported above. Iron or steel posts in front of side, division or party walls, shall be filled up solid with masonry and made perfectly tight between the posts and walls. Intermediate posts may be used, which shall be sufficiently strong, and the lintels thereon shall have sufficient bearings to carry the weight above with safety.

PLATES BETWEEN JOINTS OF OPEN BACK COLUMNS.

SEC. 113. Iron or steel posts or columns with one or more open sides and backs shall have solid iron plates on top of each, excepting where pierced for the passage of pipes.

STEEL AND IRON GIRDERS.

SEC. 114. Rivets in flanges shall be spaced so that the least value of a rivet for either shear or bearing is equal or greater than the increment of strain due to the distance between adjoining rivets. All other rules given under riveting shall be followed. The length of rivets between heads shall be limited to four times the diameter. The compression flange of plate girders shall be secured against buckling, if its length exceeds thirty times its width. If splices are used, they shall fully make good the members spliced in either tension or compression. Stiffeners shall be provided over supports and under concentrated loads; they shall be of sufficient strength, as a column, to carry the loads, and shall be connected with a sufficient number of rivets to transmit the stresses into the web plate. Stiffeners shall fit so as to support the flanges of the girders. If the unsupported depth of the web plate exceeds sixty times its thickness, stiffeners shall be used at intervals not exceeding one hundred and twenty times the thickness of the web.

ROLLED STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON BEAMS USED AS GIRDERS.

SEC. 115. When rolled steel or wrought-iron beams are used in pairs to form a girder, they shall be connected together by bolts and iron separators at intervals of not more than six times the depth of the beam and in any case not more than six feet. All beams twelve inches and over in depth shall have at least two bolts to each separator.

CAST-IRON LINTELS.

SEC. 116. Cast-iron lintels shall not be used for spans exceeding twelve feet. Cast-iron lintels or beams shall be not less than three-quarters of an inch in thickness in any of their parts.

PLATES UNDER ENDS OF LINTELS AND GIRDERS.

SEC. 117. When the lintels or girders are supported at the ends by brick walls or piers they shall rest upon cut granite, East Haven stone, or bluestone blocks at least eight inches thick, or upon cast-iron plates of equal strength by the full size of the bearings. In case the opening is less than twelve feet, the stone blocks may be five inches in thickness, or cast-iron plates of equal strength by the full size of the bearings, may be used, provided that in all cases the safe loads do not exceed those fixed by section 102 of this ordinance.

ROLLED STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON FLOOR AND ROOF BEAMS.

SEC. 118. All rolled steel and wrought-iron floor and roof beams used in buildings shall be of full weight, straight and free from injurious defects. Holes for tie rods shall be placed as near the thrust of the arch as practicable. The distance between tie rods in floors shall not exceed eight feet, and shall not exceed eight times the depth of floor beams twelve inches and under. Channels or other shapes where used as skewbacks, shall have a sufficient resisting moment to take up the thrust of the arch. Bearing plates of stone or metal shall be used to reduce the pressure on the wall to the working stress. Beams resting on girders shall be securely riveted or bolted to the same; where joined on a girder, tie straps of one-half inch net sectional area shall be used, with rivets or bolts to correspond. Anchors shall be provided at the ends of all such beams bearing on walls.

TEMPLATES UNDER ENDS OF STEEL OR IRON FLOOR BEAMS.

SEC. 119. Under the ends of all iron or steel beams where they rest on the walls, a stone or cast-iron template shall be built into the walls. Templates under ends of steel or iron beams shall be of such dimensions as to bring no greater pressure upon the brickwork than that allowed by section 103 of this ordinance. When rolled iron or steel floor beams, not exceeding six inches in depth, are placed not more than thirty inches on centers, no templates shall be required.

FRAMING AND CONNECTING STRUCTURAL WORK.

SEC. 120. All iron or steel trimmer beams, headers, and tail beams, shall be suitably framed and connected together, and the iron or steel girders, columns, beams, trusses and all other iron work of all floors and roofs shall be strapped, bolted, anchored and connected together, and to the walls.

All beams framed into and supported by other beams or girders, shall be connected thereto by angles or knees of a proper size and thickness, and have sufficient bolts or rivets in both legs of each connecting angle to transmit the entire weight or load coming on the beam to the supporting beam or girder. In no case shall the shearing value of the bolts or rivets or the bearing value of the connection ankles, provided for in this ordinance, be exceeded.

RIVETING OF STRUCTURAL STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON WORK.

SEC. 121. The distance from center of a rivet hole to the edge of the material shall be not less than—

- $\frac{5}{8}$ of an inch for $\frac{1}{2}$ inch rivets.
- $\frac{7}{8}$ of an inch for $\frac{5}{8}$ inch rivets.
- $1\frac{1}{8}$ of an inch for $\frac{3}{4}$ inch rivets.
- $1\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch for $\frac{7}{8}$ inch rivets.
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ of an inch for 1 inch rivets.

Wherever possible, however, the distance shall be equal to two diameters. All rivets, wherever practicable, shall be machine driven. The rivets in connections shall be proportioned and placed to suit the stresses. The pitch of rivets shall never be less than three diameters of the rivet, nor more than six inches. In the direction of the stress it shall not exceed sixteen times the least thickness of the outside member. At right angles to the stress it shall not exceed thirty-two times the least thickness of the outside member. All holes shall be punched accurately, so that upon assembling a cold rivet will enter the hole without straining the material by drifting. Occasional slight errors shall be corrected by reaming. The rivets shall fill the holes completely; the heads shall be hemispherical and concentric with the axis of the rivet. Gussets shall be provided wherever required, of sufficient thickness and size to accommodate the number of rivets necessary to make a connection.

BOLTING OF STRUCTURAL STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON WORK.

SEC. 122. Where riveting is not made mandatory connections may be affected by bolts. These bolts shall be of wrought-iron or mild steel, and they shall have U. S. standard threads. The threads shall be full and clean, the nut shall be truly concentric with the bolt, and the thread shall be of sufficient length to allow the nut to be screwed up tightly. When bolts go through bevel flanges, bevel washers to match shall be used so that head and nut of bolt are parallel. When bolts are used for suspenders, the working stresses shall be reduced for wrought-iron to ten thousand pounds and for steel to fourteen thousand pounds per square inch of net area, and the load shall be transmitted into the head or nut by strong washers distributing the pressure evenly over the entire surface of the same. Turned bolts in reamed holes shall be deemed a substitute for field rivets.

STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON TRUSSES.

SEC. 123. Trusses shall be of such design that the stresses in each member can be calculated. All trusses shall be held rigidly in position by efficient systems of lateral and sway bracing, struts shall be spaced so that the maximum limit of length shall not be greater than one hundred times the least radius of gyration. Any member of a truss subjected to transverse stress, in addition to direct tension or compression, shall have the stresses causing such strain added to the direct stresses coming on the member. The compression and tension stresses shall not exceed 16,000 pounds per square inch of net area in any member.

RIVETED STEEL AND WROUGHT-IRON TRUSSES.

SEC. 124. For tension members, the actual net area only, after deducting rivet holes, one-eighth inch larger than the rivets, shall be considered as resisting the stress. If tension members are made of angle irons riveted through one flange only, only that flange shall be considered in proportioning areas. Rivets to be proportioned as prescribed in this chapter. If the axis of adjoining web members do not intersect within the line of the chords, sufficient area shall be added to the chord to take up the bending strains. No bolts shall be used in the connections of riveted trusses, excepting when riveting is impracticable, and then the holes shall be drilled or reamed.

STEEL AND IRON PIN-CONNECTED TRUSSES.

SEC. 125. The bending stresses on pins shall be limited to twenty thousand pounds for steel and fifteen thousand pounds for iron. All compression members in pin-connected trusses shall be proportioned, using seventy-five per cent. of the permissible working stress for columns. The heads of all eye bars shall be made by upsetting or forging. No weld will be allowed in the body of the bar. Steel eye-bars shall be annealed. Bars shall be straight before boring. All pinholes shall be bored true, and at right angles to the axis of the members, and must fit the pin within one-thirty-second of an inch. The distance of pin-holes from center to center for corresponding members shall be alike, so that, when piled upon one another, pins will pass through both ends without forcing. Eyes and screw ends shall be so proportioned that upon test to destruction, fracture will take place in the body of the member. All pins shall be accurately turned. These pin-plates shall be connected to the members by rivets of sufficient size and number to transmit the stresses without exceeding working stresses. All rivets in members of pin-connected trusses shall be machine driven. All rivets in pin-plates which are necessary to transmit stress shall be also machine driven. The main connections of members shall be made by pins. Other connections may be made by bolts. If there is a combination of riveted and pin-connected members in one truss, these members shall comply with the requirements for pin-connected trusses; but the riveting shall comply with the requirements of this chapter.

IRON AND OTHER METAL FRONTS TO BE FILLED IN.

SEC. 126. All cast-iron or metal fronts shall be backed up or filled in with masonry of the thicknesses provided for in this chapter.

PAINTING OF STRUCTURAL METAL WORK.

SEC. 127. All structural metal work shall be cleaned of all scale, dirt and rust, and be thoroughly coated with one coat of paint. Cast-iron columns shall not be painted until after inspection by the inspector of buildings. Where surfaces in riveted work come in contact, they shall be painted before assembling. After erection all work shall be painted at least one additional coat. All iron or steel used under water shall be inclosed with concrete to exclude the air and water to the satisfaction of the inspector of buildings.

THEATRES.

SEC. 128. Every building hereafter erected or altered to be used as a theatre or public place of amusement involving the use of a stage with movable or shifting scenery, curtains and machinery, shall be of brick and fire-resisting construction throughout, except the flooring boards and the portion of the stage floor fronting the auditorium, which may be constructed of wood. Such building shall have the highest part of the main auditorium floor not more than four feet above the sidewalk; shall have at least one frontage on the street or avenue, with openings for exits not less than one-third of the frontage of the building, and shall have the doors, halls, corridors, lobbies, stairways, passages, and aisles wide, direct, and so constructed and arranged as to afford easy egress under all circumstances.

All buildings which, at the time of the passage of this ordinance, are in use or in course of construction as theatres shall, on or before September 1, 1905, comply with the requirements of sections 129, 131, 132, 139, 140, 141, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 150, 151.

REFUSAL OF PERMIT.

SEC. 129. No building erected or altered to be used for a theatre or public place of amusement involving the use of a stage with movable or shifting scenery, curtains and machinery, shall be used for such purposes until a license has been secured for the same. No license shall be issued until the inspector of buildings shall have certified in writing that said building is erected or altered and has been completed in accordance with the building ordinances.

Any inspector of buildings issuing such a certificate with knowledge that the requirements of these ordinances have not been complied with, shall be fined not more than $100 and imprisoned not more than one year.

OPEN COURT BOTH SIDES.

SEC. 130. In addition to the aforesaid entrances and exits on the street, there shall be reserved for service in case of an emergency, an open court or space on the side not bordering on the street, where said building is located on a corner lot; and on both sides of said building, where there is but one frontage on the street. The width of such open court or courts shall be not less than seven feet where the seating capacity is not over one thousand people, above one thousand and not more than eighteen hundred people, eight feet in width, and above eighteen hundred people, ten feet in width. Said open court or courts shall begin on a line with or near the proscenium wall and shall extend the length of the auditorium proper, to or near the wall separating the same from the entrance lobby or vestibule. A separate and distinct corridor shall continue to the street, from each open court, through such superstructure as may be built on the street side of the auditorium, with continuous walls of brick or fireproof materials on each side of the entire length of said corridor or corridors, and the ceiling and floors shall be fireproof. Said corridor or corridors shall not be reduced in width to more than two feet less than the width of the open court or courts, and there shall be no projection in the same; the outer openings to be provided with doors or gates opening toward the street. During the performance the doors or gates in the corridor shall be kept open by proper fastenings; at other times they may be closed and fastened by movable bolts or locks. The said open courts and corridors shall not be used for storage purposes, or for any purpose whatsoever, except for exit and entrance from and to the auditorium and stage, and must be kept free and clear during performances.

CAPACITY OF CORRIDORS.

SEC. 131. The aggregate capacity of the foyers, lobbies, corridors, passages and rooms for the use of the audience, not including aisle space between seats, shall, on each floor or gallery, be sufficient to contain the entire number to be accommodated on said floor or gallery, in the ratio of one hundred and fifty superficial feet of floor room for every one hundred persons.

SEATS TO BE FASTENED TO FLOOR.

SEC. 132. All seats in the auditorium, excepting those contained in boxes, shall be firmly secured to the floor, and no seat in the auditorium shall have more than six seats intervening between it and an aisle, on either side, and no stool or seat shall be placed in any aisle.

FLOOR.

SEC. 133. All changes in the levels of the floors of such buildings, except under stairways, from story to story, and except the necessary steps in galleries and balconies rising toward the exits, shall be made by inclines of no steeper gradient than two in ten within the auditorium and rising toward the exits and one in ten for all others.

AISLES.

SEC. 134. All aisles on the respective floors in the auditorium, having seats on both sides of the same, shall not be less than three (3) feet wide where they begin and shall be increased in width toward the exits in the ratio of one and one-half (1½) inches to every five (5) running feet. Aisles having seats on one (1) side only shall not be less than two (2) feet wide at their beginning and increased in width the same as aisles having seats on both sides. There shall be aisles not less than three (3) feet wide next to the wall of all such auditoriums. Where the aisles are of uniform width throughout their width shall be the average width proportioned as above, but no such aisle shall be less than three (3) feet six (6) inches wide.

Steps shall not be permitted in aisles except as extending from bank to bank of seats, and wherever the rise from bank to bank is two (2) in ten (10) or less, the floor of the aisle shall be made as an inclined plane, and where steps are placed outside aisles or corridors they shall be placed and maintained so as to clearly light every place where there are steps in inclosing aisles and corridors.

HEATING APPARATUS.

SEC. 135. All heating boilers shall be placed outside of the walls of theatres, and their situation approved by the inspector of buildings and the chief of the fire department.

No boiler, furnace, nor heating apparatus except steam pipes and radiators shall be located under the auditorium or stage, nor under any passage or stairway of exit.

STAIRWAYS.

SEC. 136. All stairways shall be composed of iron, stone, or other • incombustible materials. The risers shall not be more than seven and a half inches nor the treads less than ten and a half inches. No window shall be used in any stairway for entrance or exit. All stairways must be constructed with secure handrails or brick dividing walls sufficient in construction to prevent accident in case of heavy pressure. There shall be two stairways from each floor of an auditorium, starting not less than five feet wide at the upper gallery and increasing one foot in width for each one hundred seats in the galleries below. From the auditorium opening into the said open courts, or on the side street there shall not be less than two exits on each side, in each tier, from and including the parquet and each and every gallery. Each exit shall be at least five feet in width in the clear, and provided with doors of iron, or wooden doors covered with tin on both sides and edges. All of said doors shall open outwardly, and must be fastened with movable bolts, the bolts to be kept drawn during performances. There shall be balconies not less than four feet in width in the said open court or courts at each level or tier above the parquet on each side of the auditorium of sufficient length to embrace the two exits, and from said balconies there shall be staircases extending to the ground level with a rise of not over eight and a half inches to a step, and not less than nine inches tread exclusive of the nosing. The staircase from the upper balcony to the next below shall not be less than thirty-nine inches in width in the clear, and from the first balcony to the ground three feet in width in the clear, where the seating capacity of the auditorium is one for one thousand people or less, three feet and six inches in the clear where above one thousand and not more than eighteen hundred people and four feet in the clear where above eighteen hundred people and not more than twenty-five hundred people, and not over four feet six inches in the clear where about twenty-five hundred people. All the before mentioned balconies and staircases shall be constructed of iron throughout, including the floors, and of ample strength to sustain the load to be carried by them, and they shall be covered with a metal hood or awning, to be constructed in such manner as shall be satisfactory to the inspector of buildings. Where one side of a building borders on a street there shall be balconies and staircases of like capacity and kind, as before mentioned, but said staircases shall end at a balcony placed not less than seven feet above the level of the ground, and from said balcony to the ground there shall be arranged a hinged iron ladder.

All staircases for the use of the audience shall be enclosed with walls of brick, or of fireproof materials approved by the inspector of buildings, in the stories through which they pass, and the openings to said staircases from each tier shall be the full width of such staircase.

PARTITION WALLS.

SEC. 137. All partitions inclosing lobbies and corridors or separating them from auditorium shall be of brick masonry or of other non-combustible materials. Every approach to, or exit from, a theatre or other place of amusement through any other building shall have inclosing walls of brick, stone, or iron, and floors and ceilings of approved incombustible, fire resisting materials, and there shall be no opening through said walls, floors, or ceilings.

WALLS TO SEPARATE STAGE AND AUDITORIUM.

SEC. 138. The stage shall be separated from the auditorium by a brick wall and not less than 18 inches thick, or its equivalent, the entire width of the building and topped out at least four feet above the roof over the auditorium. There shall be no openings in this wall except the curtain opening, and not more than two others, to be located at the level or below the stage. These latter openings shall not exceed twenty one superficial feet each, with iron or tin covered wood and self-closing doors securely hung to rebates in the brickwork, so as to be opened from either side at all times. The wall over the curtain opening shall be carried by iron girders or by a brick arch of sufficient capacity and secured at each side of opening to prevent motion by thrust of arch.

SEC. 139. There shall be water plugs on each side of stage and fly floors, with sufficient hose attached to each plug of the size used by the fire department to reach any point on or above the stage. They must be kept free from obstruction and ready for use at any moment. There shall be placed over the curtain opening the full width a two-inch perforated pipe, supplied at each end by a one and a half inch rising main, with valves controlled from stage, each side, to form when in service a water curtain or automatic sprinkler, as the inspector of buildings may direct.

FIREPROOF CURTAIN.

SEC. 140. The proscenium opening shall be provided with a metal fireproofed curtain, or a curtain of asbestos or other fireproof material, sliding at each end in grooves securely fastened to the brick wall and extending into such grooves to a depth of not less than six (6) inches on each side of the opening, or such asbestos or fireproof curtain may be provided with steel cable guides not less than one-quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of an inch in diameter, provided that such curtain laps over the stage openings at the sides and top not less than twelve (12) inches, and that attached to said curtain at the top and bottom for the full width thereof shall be wrought iron or steel pipe not less than one and one-half ($1\frac{1}{2}$) inches internal diameter.

Said fireproof curtain shall be raised and lowered between each act or intermission and at the close of each performance, and remain closed until the beginning of the next performance, except during rehearsals, and be placed at least (3) feet distant from the footlights at the nearest point if gas is used.

Act drop curtains shall also be of fireproof material or material fireproofed.

WOODWORK COVERED WITH FIREPROOF MATERIALS.

SEC. 141. All permanent stage scenery, curtains and decorations made of combustible material belonging to the building and all the woodwork on or about the stage shall be painted or saturated with some non-combustible material, or otherwise rendered safe against fire, and the finishing coats of paint applied to all woodwork throughout the entire building shall be of such kind as will resist fire.

WORKSHOP OR STORAGE ABOVE OR UNDER AUDITORIUM.

SEC. 142. No workshop, storage or general property room shall be allowed above the auditorium or stage, or under the same, or in any of the fly galleries. All of said rooms or shops may be located in the rear or at the side of the stage, but in such cases they shall be separated from the stage by a brick wall, and the openings leading into said portions shall have fireproof doors on each side of the openings, hung to iron eyes built into the wall.

CONSTRUCTION OF GALLERIES.

SEC. 143. When galleries are constructed, all columns and girders used in the construction of the same must be of iron or steel.

VENTILATORS.

SEC. 144. In all theatres skylighted ventilators constructed of incombustible materials, having openings equal in area to one-tenth (1-10) the area of the stage floor, having the whole top so constructed and counter-balanced to open automatically, operated by cords or wires from at least two (2) points near the exits on opposite sides of the stage, and having an arrangement of combustible cords or fusible connection to open the ventilating valves automatically by the action of fire on the stage, shall be placed near the center and above the highest part of the stage.

Skylight covering of ventilators shall have sheet metal frames set with double-thick glass, each pane thereof measuring not less than three hundred (300) square inches, and immediately underneath such glass there shall be a wired netting. Wired glass shall not be used as a substitute for such netting.

NUMBER OF EXITS REQUIRED.

SEC. 145. Every theatre accommodating three hundred persons shall have at least two exits; when accommodating five hundred persons, at least three exits shall be provided, these exits not referring to or including the exits to the open court or courts at the sides of the theatre. Doorways of exit or entrance for the use of the public shall not be less than five feet in width, and for every additional one hundred persons or portion thereof to be accommodated, in excess of five hundred, twenty inches additional exit must be allowed. All doors of exit or entrance shall open outwardly and be hung to swing in such a manner as not to become an obstruction in a passage or corridor, and no such door shall be closed and locked during any representation, or when the building is open to the public. Distinct and separate places of exit and entrance shall be provided for each gallery above the first. A common place of exit and entrance may serve for the main floor of the auditorium and the first gallery. No passage leading to any stairway communicating with any entrance or exit shall be less than four feet in width in any part thereof. All stairs within the building shall be constructed of fire-proof material throughout.

EXIT SIGNS AND RED LIGHTS.

SEC. 146. Each and every exit of a theatre or other public place of amusement which can be used in case of fire shall be designated by the word "Exit" in letters of such size that they can be read from the opposite side of the auditorium, and so situated immediately over or on the exits that they can be readily seen from any or all parts of said auditorium or gallery. A red light shall be placed over each of said signs and kept burning during the time of the entertainment or performance, and no other fixed red lights will be permitted in the auditorium, and the fact that such red lights indicate an exit to be used in case of fire shall be conspicuously printed on the programme used in the theatre or other public place of amusement at each entertainment. All said red exit lights shall be lighted by gas.

THEATRE LIGHTING.

SEC. 147. All theatres shall be lighted by electric light only and shall have at least three separate and distinct circuits: (a) for the stage, (b) and (c) for the auditorium, corridors, and exits. The circuits referred to in (b) and (c) shall be so arranged that half of the lights in each division of the auditorium and half of those in each corridor and exit shall be on (b) and the other half on (c) circuit. When the current is supplied by a public lighting company these circuits shall be taken separately from the street mains.

Under all circumstances complete metallic circuits must be employed. Gas and water pipes shall never form a part of any circuit.

The number of lamps shall be so subdivided that no subcircuit shall carry any more than 60 amperes, and each subcircuit shall start from a distributing board.

EXIT LIGHTING.

SEC. 148. The red lights over exits in auditorium and all lights in passages and stairways shall be independent of the lights in other parts of the house, and so arranged that they cannot be turned off from the stage or platform.

STAND PIPES.

SEC. 149. Stand pipes four (4) inches in diameter shall be provided with hose attachments on every floor and gallery, as follows, namely: One (1) on each side of the auditorium in each tier, also on each side of the stage in each tier, and at least one (1) in the property room, and one (1) in the carpenter shop, if the same be contiguous to the building. All stand pipes shall be kept clear from obstruction. Said stand pipes shall be separated and distinct, receiving their supply of water direct from the street main, one (1) for the auditorium, and one (1) for the stage, and shall be fitted with regulation couplings of the fire department, and be ready for immediate use at all times during a performance in said building. When the pressure of the street water service is not sufficient to provide an efficient working pressure at the hose nozzle or sprinkler outlets, then the stand pipe shall be kept filled with water by means of an automatic pump or pumps of sufficient capacity to supply all the fire lines connected herewith.

HOSE.

SEC. 150. A proper and sufficient quantity of two and one-half inch hose, not less than fifty feet in length, fitted with regulation couplings of the fire department, and with nozzles attached thereto, and with hose spanners at each outlet, shall be kept always attached to each hose attachment.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS TO HAVE AMPLE STAIRWAYS.

SEC. 151. In all buildings of a public character, such as hotels, churches, theatres, restaurants, railroad depots, public halls and other buildings used or intended to be used for purposes of public assembly, amusement or instruction, the halls, doors, stairways, seats, passageways and aisles, and all lighting and heating appliances and apparatus shall be arranged as the inspector of buildings shall direct to facilitate egress in case of fire or accident, and to afford the requisite and proper accommodation for the public protection in such cases. All aisles and passageways in said buildings shall be kept free from camp stools, chairs, sofas and other obstructions, and no person shall be allowed to stand in or occupy any of said aisles or passageways during any performance, service, exhibition, lecture, concert, ball or any public assemblage.

The inspector of buildings, with the concurrence of the chief of the fire department, may, at any time, serve a written or printed notice upon the owner, lessee or manager of any of said buildings, directing any act or thing to be done or provided in or about the said buildings and the several appliances therewith connected, such as halls, doors, stairs, windows, seats, aisles, fire-walls, fire appliances and fire-escapes, so as to afford such security to the public in the uses to which they may be severally applied, as they may deem necessary. Upon report to the mayor of the city by the inspector of buildings that any order or requirement of this title in regard to theatres or places of public amusement has been violated or not complied with, in any such building, the said mayor may, in his discretion, revoke the license of such theatre or place of public amusement, and cause the same to be closed.

ASSEMBLY HALLS.

SEC. 152. Permits for the erection of buildings to be used wholly or partly as assembly halls will not be issued until the plans for ventilation and protection from fire have been approved by the inspector of buildings. The number, size, and location of the exits must be approved by the inspector of buildings and the chief of the fire department.

Existing buildings shall not be altered for use as halls for public assembly except in accordance with these regulations.

CHIMNEYS.

SEC. 153. All chimneys shall be built of brick, stone or other incombustible materials.

Chimneys in all buildings shall have walls at least eight inches thick, if of brick, unless terra cotta or fire clay flue linings are used, in which case four inches of brick work may be omitted. Chimneys other than those built of brick shall have walls at least eight inches thick and shall have an additional lining of four inches of brick work or a terra cotta or fire-clay lining. Said flue lining shall start from the bottom of the flue, or from the throat of the fireplace, if the flue starts from the latter, and shall be carried up continuously to the extreme height of the flue. The joints of all such linings shall be made to fit close together and the linings shall be built in as the flue or flues are carried up.

Every chimney hereafter built shall have an opening at or near the bottom sufficient to admit the cleaning of the same.

INSIDE OF FLUES TO BE SMOOTH.

SEC. 154. All flues in every building shall be properly cleaned and all rubbish removed, and the flues left smooth on the inside upon the completion of all buildings.

CONSTRUCTION UNDER CHIMNEY.

SEC. 155. No chimney shall be started or built upon any floor or beam of wood. In no case shall a chimney be corbeled out more than eight inches from the wall, and in all such cases the corbeling shall consist of at least five courses of brick. Where chimneys are supported by piers, the piers shall start from the foundation on the same line with the chimney breast, and shall be not less than twelve inches on the face, properly bonded into the walls. No chimney shall be cut off below, in whole or in part, and supported by wood, but shall be wholly supported by stone, brick or iron. All chimneys which shall be dangerous in any manner whatsoever shall be repaired and made safe, or taken down. Iron cupola chimneys of foundries shall extend at least ten feet above the highest point of any roof within a radius of fifty feet of such cupola, and be covered on top with a heavy wire netting.

All smoke flues shall extend at least four feet above a flat roof and at least three feet above a peak roof, and shall be coped with well-burnt terra cotta, stone or cast-iron.

FIREPLACES.

SEC. 156. All fireplaces shall have trimmer arches to support hearths, and the said arches shall be at least sixteen inches in width, measured from the face of the chimney breast, and at least one foot longer on each side than the width of the fireplace opening, and they shall be constructed of brick, stone or burnt clay. Wooden centering under trimmer arches shall be removed before plastering the ceiling underneath. The fire-backs of all fireplaces hereafter erected shall not be less than eight inches in thickness of solid masonry.

STOVES.

SEC. 157. Stoves shall not be placed nearer than twenty inches to any unprotected woodwork. Floors under all stoves shall be protected by a covering of incombustible material. Where a kitchen range is placed near a wooden stud partition, the studs shall be cut away and framed two feet higher and one foot wider than the range and filled in to a line with said stud partition with brick or fireproof blocks and plastered thereon. In cases where hot water, steam, hot-air or other heating appliances or furnaces are hereafter placed in any building, or flues or fireplaces are changed or enlarged, due notice shall first be given to the inspector of buildings by the contractor or inspector of said work.

STOVE PIPES TO BE GUARDED.

SEC. 158. No stove pipe in any building with wooden or combustible floors, ceilings or partitions, shall enter any flue unless the said pipe shall be at least twelve inches from either of the said floors, ceilings or partitions, unless the same is properly protected by a metal shield, in which case the distance shall not be less than six inches.

In all cases where stove pipes pass through stud or wooden partitions of any kind, they shall be guarded by either a double collar of metal with at least three inches of air space and holes for ventilation, or by a soap-stone or burnt-clay ring not less than four inches in thickness and extending through the partition. Where laundry stoves, hot water, steam, hot-air or other furnaces are used in any building, the smoke pipe leading therefrom must be kept not less than eighteen inches from the floor beams or ceiling unless the same is properly protected by a metal shield, when the distance shall not be less than nine inches. In all cases where such pipe passes through a wood or stud partition it shall be protected by a thimble with eight inches of brickwork around it, or a double collar of metal with at least six inches air space and holes for ventilation.

FURNACES.

SEC. 159. All brick hot-air furnaces shall have two covers, with an air space of at least four inches between them; the inner cover of the hot-air chamber shall be either a brick arch or two courses of brick laid on galvanized iron or tin supported by iron bars; the outside cover, which is the top of the furnace, shall be made of brick or metal supported by iron bars, and so constructed as to be perfectly tight, and shall not be less than four inches below the ceiling or floor beams. The walls of the furnace shall be built hollow in the following manner: one inner and one outer wall, each four inches in thickness, properly bonded together, with an air space of not less than three inches between them. Furnaces must be built at least four inches from all woodwork. All cold-air boxes shall be made of metal, brick or other incombustible material for a distance of at least three feet from the furnace. All portable hot-air furnaces shall be kept at least two feet from any wooden or combustible partition or ceiling unless the partitions and ceilings are properly protected by a metal shield, when the distance shall not be less than one foot. Wooden floors under any portable furnace shall be protected by a suitable stone or a course of bricks well laid in mortar. Said stone or bricks shall extend at least two feet beyond the furnace in front of the ash-pan.

REGISTER BOXES.

SEC. 160. All register boxes shall be made of tin plate, with a flange on top to fit the groove in the frame, the register to rest upon the same; there shall be an open space of two inches on all sides of the register box, extending from the under side of the border to and through the ceiling below. The said opening shall be fitted with a tight tin casing, the upper end of which shall be turned under the frame. When a register box is placed in the floor over a portable furnace, the open space on all sides of the register box shall not be less than three inches. When only one register is connected with a furnace said register shall have no valve.

STEAM PIPES.

SEC. 161. No steam pipe shall be placed within two inches of any timber or woodwork unless the timber or woodwork is protected by a metal shield, then the distance shall not be less than one inch. All steam pipes passing through floors and ceilings, or lath and plastered partitions, shall be protected by a metal tube one inch larger in diameter than the pipe, and the space shall be filled in with mineral wool, asbestos or other incombustible material.

HOT AIR PIPES.

SEC. 162. Hot-air pipes in stud partitions, and horizontal pipes in floors, shall be built in the following manner: the pipes shall be double, that is, two pipes, one inside the other, at least one-half inch apart, and there shall be a space of at least three inches between the pipe and stud or any other timber on each side; or if a single pipe is used, the inside face of said studs shall be well lined with tin plate and the outside faces covered with brick, iron lath, or slate, and there shall be at least one-half inch air space all around the said heating pipe. Horizontal hot-air pipes shall be kept six inches below the floor beams or ceiling; if the floor beams or ceiling are plastered and protected by a metal shield, then the distance shall not be less than three inches. In cases where hot-air pipes pass through a wood or stud partition they shall be guarded by either a double collar of metal, with two inches air space and holes for ventilation, or they shall be surrounded by brickwork at least four inches in thickness. Where the air conveyed through pipes is heated in an ordinary hot-air furnace, or in any other apparatus by direct contact of the air with the fire box, the material used for these double pipes and register boxes shall be bright tin. Where the air is heated by hot water or steam pipes or indirect heating stacks, any other sheet metal may be used for the pipes, and the use of double pipes is not obligatory.

All hot-air flues and shafts in brick or stone walls shall have the walls of the flues or shafts at least eight inches thick, unless lined with tin, galvanized sheet iron or terra cotta or fire-clay flue linings, in which case four inches of brickwork may be omitted. No wooden casing, furring or lath shall be placed against or cover any smoke flue or metal pipe used to convey hot air or steam.

GAS AND WATER PIPES.

SEC. 163. No gas, water or other pipes which may be introduced into any building shall be let into the beams unless the same be placed within thirty-six inches of the end of the beams, and in no building shall the said pipes be let into the beams more than two inches in depth. Every building other than a dwelling house, hereafter erected, and all factories, hotels, churches, theatres, schoolhouses and other buildings of a public character now erected in which gas or steam is used for lighting or heating, shall have the supply pipes leading from the street mains provided each with a stop-cock placed in the sidewalk at or near the curb, and so arranged as to allow of shutting off at that point. All gas brackets shall be placed at least three feet below any ceiling or woodwork, unless the same is properly protected by a shield, in which case the distance shall not be less than eighteen inches. No swinging or folding gas brackets shall be placed against any stud partition or woodwork. Gas lights placed near window curtains or any other combustible material shall be protected by a proper shield.

ELECTRIC WIRES.

SEC. 164. Every electric wire for furnishing light, heat or power, leading into any building from the outside thereof and all such wires placed inside of any building, shall be installed and maintained in full accordance with the rules and regulations of the national board of fire underwriters.

FIREPROOF SHUTTERS.

SEC. 165. All stores or storehouses, steel or skeleton construction buildings, or other buildings, except churches and private residences, now or hereafter erected, in close proximity to other structures, shall, when ordered by the inspector of buildings, be provided at all openings on the side or sides and front or rear or both, when within thirty feet of a combustible structure, with iron or other fireproof shutters or fireproof glass (wire-glass) and fireproof sash and frames of a kind recommended by the national board of fire underwriters. All such shutters must be hung on iron frames or iron eyes built in the walls.

All occupants of buildings shall close the said shutters and also all fireproof doors or shutters fitted into interior walls to prevent the spread of fire between different buildings or between parts of any building at the close of the business of each day.

WALLS OF ELEVATOR SHAFT.

SEC. 166. All elevators hereafter placed in any building, except fireproof buildings, shall be inclosed in suitable walls of brick, or with a suitable frame-work of iron and burnt-clay filling, or of such other fireproof material and form of construction as may be approved by the inspector of buildings. If the inclosure walls are of brick, laid in cement mortar, and not used as bearing walls, they may be eight inches in thickness for not more than fifty feet of their uppermost height, and increasing in thickness four inches for each lower fifty feet, portion or part thereof. Said walls or construction shall extend through and at least three feet above the roof. All openings in the same shall be provided with fireproof doors and made solid for three feet above the floor level, and with grill openings above. Elevators may also be placed in any stair well or open court of any building erected prior to the passage of this act, under a permit therefor from the inspector of buildings, but the frame-work and inclosure of any such elevator shall be constructed of fireproof materials. The foregoing requirements as to brick or fireproof shafts shall include all dumb-waiters except such as do not extend through more than three stories in dwelling houses. The roofs over all inclosed elevators shall be made of fireproof materials, with a skylight at least three-fourths the area of the shaft, made of this sheet glass, set in iron frames, as hereinbefore in this section described, including wire netting underneath the glass of the skylight or the use of wire glass.

INSPECTOR OF PASSENGER ELEVATORS.

SEC. 167. The inspector of buildings shall cause an inspection of passenger elevators as often as once every six months. Any repairs found necessary upon inspection of any elevator shall be made without delay by the owner or person having the care or control of the same, and in case defects are found to exist which would endanger life by the continued use of such elevator, then, upon notice from the inspector of buildings, the use of such elevator shall cease, and it shall not again be used until a certificate shall be first obtained from said inspector that such elevator has been put in safe order and is fit for use.

ELEVATOR ATTENDANT.

SEC. 168. No person shall employ or permit any person to be in charge of running any passenger elevator who is under eighteen years of age or who does not possess proper qualifications therefor. Every freight elevator or lift shall have a notice posted conspicuously thereon as follows: "Persons riding on this elevator do so at their own risk." Every elevator in any building erected to be occupied, or now occupied, as a hotel, shall be inclosed in suitable walls constructed and arranged as in this chapter required for elevators hereafter placed in buildings, unless under the provisions of this section such elevator might have been placed in said building without such inclosing walls.

SAFETY DEVICES FOR ELEVATOR CARS.

SEC. 169. All elevators, either passenger or freight, shall be provided with the most approved form of controlling device, and all elevators operated by electricity must be so constructed as to insure the motor against damage by any overload or excess of current or power; the said device to be automatic in its operation and independent of the operator in charge of the car.

All elevators, cabs, or cars, whether used for freight or passengers, shall be provided with some suitable mechanical device, to be approved by the inspector of buildings, whereby the cab or cars will be securely held in the event of accidents to the ropes or hoisting apparatus, or from any similar cause.

Every passenger and freight elevator now in use or hereafter erected shall have what is known as a safety air cushion built of masonry, steel or other fireproof material, or such other device or devices for the safety of passengers as may be deemed advisable and expedient, to be determined by the inspector of buildings.

Immediately under the machinery at the top of every elevator shaft in any building in said city there shall be provided and placed a substantial grating or screen of iron, of such construction as shall be approved by the inspector of buildings.

FREIGHT ELEVATORS.

SEC. 170. In any building in which there shall be any hoistway or freight elevator or well-hole not enclosed in walls constructed of brick or other fireproof material, and provided with fireproof doors, the openings thereof through and upon each floor of said building shall be provided with and protected by a substantial guard or gate, and with such good and sufficient trap-doors, with which to close the same, as may be directed and approved by the inspector of buildings; and when, in his opinion, automatic trap-doors are required to the floor openings of any uninclosed freight elevator, the same shall be so constructed as to form a substantial floor surface when closed, and so arranged as to open and close by the action of the elevator in its passage either ascending or descending. The said inspector shall have exclusive power and authority within said city to require the openings of hoistways or hoistway shafts, elevators and well-holes in buildings to be inclosed or secured by trap-doors, guards or gates and railings. Such guards or gates shall be kept closed at all times, except when in actual use, and the trap-doors shall be closed at the close of the business of each day by the occupant or occupants of the building having the use or control of the same.

BULKHEADS.

SEC. 171. Bulkheads used as inclosures for elevator and coverings for the machinery of elevators, and all other bulkheads, including the bulkheads of all dwelling houses hereafter erected or altered, may be constructed of hollow fireproof blocks or of wood covered with fireproof material, or filled in the thickness of the studding with such material, and covered on the outside with metal, including sides and edges of doors. Covers on top of water tanks placed on roofs may be of wood, covered with tin.

CORNICES.

SEC. 172. All exterior cornices and gutters of all buildings hereafter erected, except wooden buildings, shall be of fireproof material. All fireproof cornices shall be well secured to the walls with iron anchors, independent of any woodwork. Where a wall is finished with a cornice of stone, terra cotta or similar material, the greatest weight of the material of such cornice shall be on the inside of the face of the wall unless supported by iron construction, so that the cornice shall firmly balance upon the wall. In all cases the walls behind metal cornices shall be carried up to the planking of the roof, and where the cornice projects above the roof, the walls shall be carried up above the planking of the cornice and be coped. All exterior wooden cornices that may now be or that may hereafter become unsafe or rotten shall be taken down, and if replaced shall be constructed of fireproof material. All exterior cornices of wood or gutters that may hereafter be damaged by fire to the extent of one-third shall be taken down, and if replaced shall be constructed of fireproof material; but if not damaged to the extent of one-third, the same may be repaired with the same kind of material of which they were originally constructed.

SNOW GUARD.

SEC. 173. Every building near any street or sidewalk in said city, shall be furnished with a balustrade or other contrivance, sufficient to prevent any slide of snow or ice falling from the roof thereof upon such street or sidewalk.

ROOF OF WOODEN BUILDING.

SEC. 174. No wooden building within the fire limits more than two stories or over twenty feet in height above the curb level to the highest part thereof, which shall require roofing, shall be roofed with any other roofing or covering, except as provided in this chapter. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the repairing of any shingle roof, provided the building is not altered in height. All buildings shall have scuttles or bulkheads, covered with fireproof material, with ladders or stairs leading thereto. No scuttle shall be less in size than two by three feet. All skylights having a superficial area of more than twelve square feet, placed in any building, shall have the sashes and frames thereof constructed of iron and glass. Every fireproof roof hereafter placed on any building shall have, beside the usual scuttle or bulkhead, a skylight or skylights of a superficial area equal to not less than one-fiftieth the superficial area of such fireproof roof. All buildings shall be kept provided with proper metallic leaders for conducting water from the roofs in such a manner as shall protect the walls and foundations of said buildings from injury. In no case shall the water from the said leaders be allowed to flow upon the sidewalk, but the same shall be conducted by pipe or pipes to the sewer. If there be no sewer in the street upon which such buildings front, then the water shall be conducted by proper pipe or pipes below the surface of the sidewalk to the street gutter.

ROOF OF BUILDINGS NOT WOODEN.

SEC. 175. The planking and sheathing of the roof of every building hereafter erected, except a wooden building, shall in no case be extended across the front, rear, side, end or party wall thereof. Every such building and the tops and sides of every dormer-window thereon shall be covered and roofed with slate, tin, copper, iron, gravel or such other quality of fireproof roofing as the inspector of buildings, under his certificate, may authorize.

MANSARD ROOF.

SEC. 176. If a mansard or any other roof having a pitch of over sixty degrees be placed on any building, except a wooden building, or a dwelling house not exceeding thirty-five feet in height, it shall be constructed of iron rafters and lathed with iron on the inside and plastered, or filled in with fireproof material not less than three inches thick, and covered with metal, slate or tile.

CHANGING ROOF.

SEC. 177. It shall not be lawful for the owner or owners of any brick dwelling house with eight-inch walls, or of any wooden building already erected that has a peaked roof, to raise the same for the purpose of making a flat roof thereon, unless the same be raised with the same kind of material as the building, and unless such new roof be covered with some of the articles mentioned in this chapter, and provided that such building, when so raised, shall not exceed forty feet in height to the highest part thereof. All such buildings must exceed twenty-five feet in height to the peak of the roof before the said alteration and raising. If any such building shall have been built before the street upon which it is located is graded, or if the grade is altered such building may be raised or lowered to meet the requirements of such grade.

MEASUREMENTS FROM CURB LEVEL.

SEC. 178. The height of all walls except as provided for in section seventy-six shall be measured from the curb level at the center of the building to the top of the highest point of the roof beams in the case of flat roofs, and for high-pitched roofs the average of the height of the gable be taken as the highest point of the wall. In case the wall is carried on iron girders, or iron girders and columns, or piers of masonry, the measurement, as to height, may be taken from the top of such girder. When the walls of a structure do not adjoin the street, then the average level for the ground adjoining the walls may be taken instead of the street curb level for the height of such structure. The width of buildings, for the purpose of this title, shall be determined by the way the beams are placed. The lengthwise of the beams may be considered and taken to be the widthwise of the building, and the bearing wall are those walls on which the beams or trusses rest.

BUILDINGS WITHIN FIRE DISTRICT.

SEC. 179. Within the Fire District, as they now are or may hereafter be established by the board of aldermen of said city, no frame or wooden building shall hereafter be built, except as in this chapter authorized.

Provided, however, that the inspector of buildings may at his discretion, issue a permit to any person to build any wooden addition to any private house, upon application of the owner of said building within said fire district upon such terms and conditions as the building inspector may deem advisable when, in his opinion, after a full hearing has been held, there seems to exist sufficient reason why such a permit should not be granted."

RIGHT TO REBUILD DAMAGED BUILDINGS.

SEC. 180. Every wooden or frame building with a brick or other front within the fire limits which may hereafter be damaged to an amount not greater than one-half of the value thereof, exclusive of the value of the foundation at the time of such damage, may be repaired or rebuilt. But if such damage shall amount to more than one-half of the value of such building it shall be taken down. If the inspector of buildings shall determine that such damage is greater than one-half the value of such building and the owner thereof wishes to rebuild, he may appeal to the board of arbitration which shall be composed of one engineer and one architect who shall be appointed by the inspector of buildings, and one builder appointed by the owner of the building, and a decision of the majority of them, reduced to writing and sworn to, shall be conclusive on all parties.

VARIOUS STRUCTURES WITHIN THE FIRE LIMITS.

SEC. 181. The following wooden and temporary structures shall be allowed within the fire limits:

Fences of wood shall not be erected over eight feet high. Signs of wood shall not be erected over two feet high on any building. Sheds of wood not over fifteen feet high, open on at least one side, with the sides and roof thereof covered with fireproof material, may also be built, but no fence shall be used as the back or side of any such shed, provided, that sheds for the protection of lumber may be erected to greater height under such conditions as may be designed by the inspector of buildings.

Exterior privies and wood or coal houses, not exceeding one hundred and fifty square feet in superficial area and eight feet high, may be built of wood, but the roofs thereof must be covered with metal, gravel or slate. Sheds erected on piers, wharves or bulkheads on a water front, not exceeding twenty-five feet in height, shall be covered on the outside with slate, tile, metal or other in-

Lumber or other wood, or second-hand combustible material shall not be piled at any lesser distance from the nearest dwelling house than double the height of such pile.

Any bay or oriel window that does not extend more than three feet above the second story ceiling line of any dwelling house may be built of wood.

USE OF WOODEN BEAMS.

SEC. 182. All wooden beams or other timbers in the party wall of every building built of stone, brick or iron, shall be separated from the beam or timber entering in the opposite side of the wall by at least four inches of solid mason work. No wooden floor beams nor wooden roof beams used in any building, exceeding three stories in height, hereafter erected, shall be of less thickness than three inches. All wooden trimmer and header beams shall not be less than one inch thicker than the floor or roof beams on the same tier, where the header is four feet or less in length; and where the header is more than four feet and not more than fifteen feet in length, the trimmer and header beams shall be at least double the thickness of the floor or roof beams, or shall each be made of two beams forming such thickness properly spiked or bolted together, and when the header is more than fifteen feet in length wrought-iron flitch plates of proper thickness and depth shall be placed between two wooden beams suitably bolted together to and through the iron plates in constructing the trimmer and header beams; or wrought-iron or rolled steel beams of sufficient strength may be used. Every wooden beam, except header and tail beams, shall rest at one end four inches in the wall, or upon a girder as authorized by this title. All wooden floor and wooden roof beams shall be properly bridged with cross-bridging and the distance between bridging or between bridging and walls shall not exceed eight feet. Every wooden header or trimmer more than four feet long, used in any building, shall be hung in stirrup-irons of suitable thickness for the size of the timbers or joist hangers approved by the inspector of buildings. No timber shall be used in any wall of any building where stone, brick or iron is commonly used, except lintels, as hereinbefore provided. The ends of all wooden floor and roof beams, where they rest on brick walls, shall be cut to a level of three inches on their depth, so that in case of fire they may fall without injury to walls. All wooden beams shall be trimmed away from the flues, whether the same be a smoke, air, or any other flue, the trimmer beam to be eight inches from the inside face of the flue in a straight way and four inches from the outside of a chimney breast, and the header two inches from the outside face of the flue.

Each tier of beams shall be anchored to the side, front, rear or party walls at intervals of not more than six feet apart, with good, strong wrought-iron anchors of not less than one and a half inches by three-eighths of an inch in size, well fastened to the side of the beams by two or more nails made of wrought-iron at least one-fourth of an inch in diameter. The ends of beam resting upon girders shall be butted together, end to end, and strapped by wrought-iron straps of the same size and distance apart, and in the same beams as the wall anchors, and shall be fastened in the same manner as said wall anchors, or they may lap each other at least twelve inches and be well spiked or bolted together where lapped. Where the beams are supported by girders, the girders shall be anchored to the walls and fastened to each other by suitable iron straps. Every pier and wall, front or rear, shall be well anchored to the beams of each story, with the same size anchors as are required for side walls, which anchor shall hook over the second beams. Each tier of beams, front and rear, opposite each pier, shall have hard wood or Georgia pine anchor strips dovetailed into the beams diagonally, which strips shall cover at least four beams, and be one inch thick and four inches wide, but no such anchor strips shall be let in within four feet of the center line of the beams; or wooden strips shall be nailed on the top of the beams and kept in place until the floors are being laid. Wooden columns supporting wooden girders and wooden floor beams and wooden roof beams, in all buildings more than two stories in height, shall each have cap and base plates of iron not less than one inch thick, and of proper size and shape. Said wooden columns, when placed one over another, shall not bear upon any wooden girder, but shall bear directly upon each other, or shall have between the iron plates suitable iron dowels passing through the girders. All timbers and wood beams used in any building shall be of good, sound material, free from rot, large and loose knots, shakes, or any imperfection whereby the strength may be impaired, and be of such size and dimensions as the purposes for which the building is intended require.

WOODEN BUILDINGS OUTSIDE FIRE DISTRICT.

SEC. 183. Outside of the fire district before prescribed herein, buildings of frame or wood may be erected, but no frame building, to be occupied or used as a stable, workshop or manufactory, shall be built more than two stories or twenty-five feet in height, nor shall any wooden tower or spire be built or rebuilt to a greater height than sixty feet. All frame or wooden buildings exceeding a height of fifteen feet shall be built with sills, posts, studs, plates and rafters, all of suitable size and properly framed and braced, and with suitable studs set at proper distances apart. The floor beams shall not be less than two inches in thickness. The covering of roofs may be of shingle. All cellar or basement walls of frame or wooden buildings shall be not less than eight inches thick if of brick, or of a greater thickness if of stone. When any said wall is eight feet or more above the surface of the ground, then the wall shall be not less than twelve inches thick if of brick, or not less than sixteen inches thick, if of stone. Frame buildings sheathed with boards and partially or entirely covered with four inches of brickwork shall be deemed to be frame buildings.

Any person placing any incumbrance on this balcony is liable to a penalty of ten dollars."

No person shall at any time place an incumbrance of any kind whatsoever before or upon any fire-escape.

It shall be the duty of every fireman and policeman who shall discover any fire-escape balcony or ladder of any fire-escape incumbered in any way to forthwith report the same to the inspector of buildings, who shall immediately notify the occupant of the apartment or premises to which such fire-escape is attached, either verbally or in writing, to remove such incumbrance and to keep the fire-escape free from further incumbrance. If such notice shall not be complied with said inspector shall notify the city attorney, and said occupant, on conviction, shall be fined not more than ten dollars for each offense.

If the owner or agent neglects to proceed to put such building in a safe condition or forthwith to pull down or secure such building, wall or dangerous parts or remedy the defect, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

BUILDINGS ENDANGERING LIFE.

SEC. 193. In case the decision of the inspector upon the safety of any building, or any part thereof, is made in a case which is so urgent that the failure to promptly carry out his order to demolish or strengthen such building, or part thereof, may endanger life and limb, the decision and order of the inspector shall be absolute and final, and no appeal therefrom to an arbitration shall be permitted.

DUTY OF INSPECTOR IF BUILDING IS DANGEROUS.

It shall also be unlawful to occupy a street or sidewalk under authority of such permit, for the storage of articles not intended for immediate use in connection with the operations for which such permit has been issued.
